Placed on Steamer for Cork After Violent Scenes at Holy Head, Wales

Action Denounced—British Government and Officials Called "Body Snatchers"

QUEENSTOWN, Oct. 29 (By Associated Press).—The body of Terence MacSwiney was landed here today from the steamer Rathmore. It was received by the British government and thousands of the city's inhabitants. A draft of armed troops was present.

Business was completely suspended and indignation was expressed at the British government's action in diverting the body instead of allowing it to proceed to Cork by way of Dublin.

MAINTENANCE OF ISOLATION HOSPITAL

The proposition of turning the maintenance of the new isolation hospital in Varnum avenue, which was opened formally last Monday, over to a board of trustees will be discussed at an executive meeting of the Lowell charter commission Friday evening, Nov. 5.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson today received a request from the charter commission to be present at that time and similar invitations have been sent to members of the board of health and to representatives of the North Middlesex Medical society.

At the present time the hospital is conducted under the direct supervision of the mayor as the head of the health department and a superintendent, Dr. Forster H. Smith, supervises the actual maintenance of the building. In its rechartering of the city charter, the charter commission evidently has considered a charter which would not give the mayor direct control over the health department and wishes to ascertain if the new hospital could feasibly be conducted by a board of trustees.

LAND FOR FIREHOUSE IN THE HIGHLANDS

Commissioner John F. Salmon will introduce a vote at a special meeting of the municipal council tomorrow morning to serve notice on Albert B. Cameron that the city intends to take the parcel of land owned by him at the junction of Stevens and Pine streets, to be used for firehouse purposes.

If the vote is passed by the council, another vote authorizing Commissioner George E. Marchand of the public property department and Commissioner Salmon to call for bids for the drawing of plans and specifications for the construction of a new firehouse in the Highlands will be introduced. If both votes are passed the first formal steps in the erection of a new house to take the place of the Westford street house which was sold at auction last August will have been taken.

The firehouse situation in the Highlands has kept the residents of that section in a more or less wondering and controversial attitude since last August when the Westford street house was sold at public auction at the direction of the municipal council. There has been more or less discussion as to what site should be chosen and under what conditions the new house should be built. The site which Commissioner Salmon has chosen has been approved by the national board of underwriters and the chamber of commerce. It contains 3355 square feet of land and can be purchased for slightly more than $3000 from Mr. Cameron, its present owner.

If the council decides to approve the site at tomorrow's meeting, a date will be set for a hearing on the matter before the land is actually taken.

A cover for sewer outlets has been invented that prevents the entrance of rats or other animals.

LOWELL TEACHERS AT BOSTON MEETING

Lowell was well represented at the 68th annual meeting of the Middlesex County Teachers' association held today at Tremont Temple and the state house hearing room, Boston. All the public schools of the city were closed to allow the teachers to attend the meeting and practically the entire teaching corps of the city took advantage of the opportunity.

The Lowell teachers had an especial interest in the meeting as one of their number, Henry H. Harris, headmaster of the Lowell high school, is president of the association and presided at the sessions of the elementary school section in Converse hall.

Among the speakers at the afternoon session of this section were Congressman John Jacob Rogers whose subject was "The Federal Interest in Education," and Albert Edmund Brown, formerly director of the department of music of the Lowell State Normal school, who spoke on "The Case for Music as a Vital Force." The ushers of the meeting were the officers of the girls' battalion of the Lowell high school.

ASK LOWELL WOMEN TO VOTE EARLY

The local board of election commissioners, through its chairman, Hugh C. McOsker, today called upon all Lowell women who are registered as voters to cast their ballots next Tuesday between 10 o'clock in the forenoon and 4 in the afternoon, if possible, so that congestion in the early morning and evening may be avoided.

It is feared that many women will accompany their husbands to the polls before 9 o'clock in the morning, because of a natural tendency to go to the polls alone. If this custom is indulged in to any great extent it will mean congestion at the polls in the early morning and rather than wait many men who can vote at no other time, may give up the idea of voting at all.

The hours between 6 and 9 o'clock in the morning should be reserved for those who work, the election commissioners say. Of course, women who work will be entitled to vote at that time, if they find it necessary to do so, but housekeepers and others who are not occupied during the late forenoon and early afternoon are asked to vote during the quiet period so that the burden on the precinct officers may be distributed as evenly as possible.

HALLOWEEN OBSERVANCE

Time Honored Occasion Will Be Observed Tomorrow—Many Parties Tonight

Tomorrow will be Halloween, a time honored occasion for children to play harmless pranks and older folk to gather in their homes for an evening of pleasure. This year Halloween does not really come until Saturday night, Oct. 31 is the traditional date for its observance, but in Lowell it will be generally observed tomorrow night.

In some cases the observance has been pushed forward to this evening and practically every dance hall in the city will be the scene of a Halloween party.

COX TO REPLY TO HARDING

Will Answer Declaration That He is "Unpledged" and "Unbossed"

War Veteran Sends Money to Be Used in Distributing Copies of Covenant

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 29.—Gov. Cox brought his campaign back to his home state today beginning with a speech here. Later he was to speak at Kent, Ohio, and at Akron, tonight. At Akron he plans to reply to Senator Harding's speech of Thursday night in the same city. In that speech Senator Harding declared that he was not the candidate of any clique or combination, but was absolutely "unpledged" and "unbossed."

Gov. Cox made public today a letter from Herbert C. Spiller of Dayton, a veteran of the world war, contributing money to be used "in distributing copies of the covenant of the League of Nations."

The governor's reply said: "It is a sad commentary on human nature that the boys who offered their lives to end the war for all time, must still carry on the fight to see that our pledge is kept."

PLAN ICE SPORTS ON MERRIMACK RIVER

If the weather man provides any where near as much cold weather during the coming winter as he did last winter, the Merrimack river will be the scene of more ice sports than it has had for many years past, according to plans outlined at a smoker held by members of the Lowell Motor Boat club last evening at their rooms in Pawtucket street.

This organization which has done much to promote the use of the river for pleasure purposes during the summer months now intends to promote winter sports on Lowell's noted stream and, if weather conditions allow, it will not be unusual to see ice yacht races, skating and other ice sports along the river course next winter.

The club is also planning a big water carnival on the Merrimack next summer. On Nov. 26 it will conduct a dancing party in Associate hall to raise funds for the affair and one of the novel features will be the award of a motor boat to the winner of a coupon contest. The following officers were chosen to have charge of the party: Commodore James H. Walker, general manager; Walter J. Wilson, floor director; Joseph M. Dinneen, assistant floor director; Paul M. Dinneen, chief aid, and William E. Adams, treasurer. The club has a membership numbering more than seventy.

BUYS PROPERTY FROM WRIGHT ESTATE

The property at the corner of Cabot and Merrimack streets, owned by the Wright estate, has been sold to Paul Vincent of Riverside street. The final papers having been passed yesterday afternoon.

The property consists of two brick blocks and a wooden structure. The corner block, a brick structure three stories high, contains two stores and a lodging house. The other in Merrimack street is a four story brick building with one store and numerous flats, while the wooden building in Cabot street has two stores in the basement, the two upper floors being devoted to lodging apartments. The price paid for the entire property, it is said, was $35,000.

ADMIRE COX'S COURSE

Has Spoken Truly and Fearlessly About the Great Issues at Stake

Asks to Be Permitted to Sign Himself "Your Grati-fied and Loyal Supporter"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Wilson today wrote Gov. Cox expressing confidence in him.

The president said he had followed Gov. Cox's course throughout the campaign with "admiration," and expressed the belief that the governor would receive the "emphatic endorsement" of the voters of the country. "You have spoken truly and fearlessly about the great issues at stake," the president said, and in concluding his letter he asked that he be permitted to sign himself "Your gratified and loyal supporter."

The president expressed the hope that under Gov. Cox's leadership "we carry the policy of the national government forward along the path of liberal legislation and humane reform until the whole world again sees an illustration of the wholesome strength of democracy and the happy fruit of what the founders of the republic pursued."

A Marvel of Baking Efficiency

Domestic Science Fireless Cookstoves can do practically any kind of cooking—including baking and roasting—that a kitchen range can do, because of the heat-conserving, triple seal top, with its patented Water-Seal, a water-filled groove in the top of cooking compartment, to keep heat from escaping between compartment top and cover.

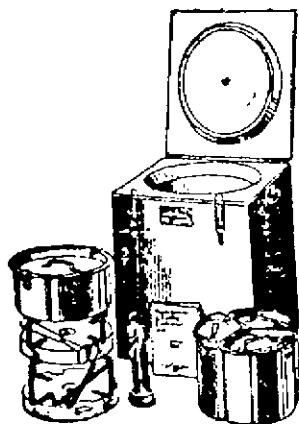

SAVES FUEL

You can bake your bread, biscuits and pies, roast meats and cook vegetables in the Domestic Science. By heating the soapstone for fifteen or twenty minutes you can do cooking that would take hours of fuel burning in your range.

Gives You More Time Away From Home

You can put the unheated foods in the Domestic Science and go out for hours, returning to find dinner perfectly cooked and piping hot, ready to serve. You will find that everything cooked in it has an added deliciousness, the toothsome of cooked-in flavors the tender delicacy of thoroughly cooked foods.

one really wants Senator Harding for president. And yet they tell me that, as partisans, many expected to vote for him, because they have been taught to believe that they "wanted a change." The expression was preached as propaganda by reactionary leaders until it has become nauseating to the public."

Gov. Cox asked whether the voters desire a change back to normalcy relative to legislation, to "tax revision by big business," to "success of reactionary politicians," to "control of government by men led by Lodge and Penrose," and to other conditions.

Gov. Cox's visit here was the occasion for a great rally of Hoosier democracy. A parade, with fireworks, torchlights and bands, was staged and the governor spoke to an overflow meeting outside of the hall. Hundreds of persons, including many clubs, marched in the parade.

With his fire against the argument for "a change" in government, Gov. Cox also preached the League of Nations and predicted victory next Tuesday.

BLIND MAN'S BUFF

The next game the picnicers from Meadow Grove school played was "blind man's buff."

Muff Mole was "it," so Nancy tied Mr. Scribble Scratch's handkerchief over his eyes, Muff's eyes, not Scribble Scratch's, for although folks think Muff's eyes don't amount to much because they are so deep down under his Well, Muff let Nancy tie the handkerchief over his eyes, and started off. But although he went slowly, his brain was working lustily. You'll see why.

He dug down into the ground like a flash when he heard his name mentioned, but his daddy, Mike Mole, went after him and hauled him out, because he knew what a smart boy Muff was and he wanted him to prove it.

Now, people who are playing blind man's buff don't like to be caught; they just hate to be guessed. You know how boys change caps and girls change aprons and so on, just so they they knocked him, and pulled his little nothing of a tail and said, "Can't catch me, can't catch me!" and were just perfectly horrid. Finally Muff made a grab, and caught Snoopy Skunk right around the leg.

"Petey Porcupine!" sang out Muff loudly. "I've caught Petey Porcupine." "Wrong!" cried everybody. "Let him go, Muff. You're still 'it'."

Mike Mole, his daddy, was terribly mortified. "Goodness," thought he, "how could Muff make that mistake. I knew it was Snoopy away over here."

MILLERAND RESEMBLES LATE COL. ROOSEVELT

PARIS, Oct. 29.—President Millerand greatly resembles physically the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt. He has the same broad chest, short, thick-set stature, the twinkling blue eyes look searching at one through thick lenses; the same large head, strong, powerful neck; the same capacity for hard work.

At Versailles, after Millerand had been officially invested with the powers of president of the French republic, the correspondent of the Associated Press was one of a large group of newspaper men with whom the president shook hands.

"How do you feel, Mr. President?" the correspondent asked. "Splendid," Millerand fairly shouted. Somehow, the word sounded very much like one heard years ago, "Bully."

SUCH IS LIFE

Squire Harpington Gets It Going and Coming

That morning Squire Abner Harpington had escorted the cat down to the creek and advised kitty along the lines of Mr. Pat Henry's famous admonition to sink or swim, hoping the cat hadn't taken swimming lessons.

That very evening Mrs. Harpington again reminded her lord and master that it was up to him to dig the cat out from under the sofa and pen kitty in the basement for the night.

"Go, what?" exclaimed the squire. "Is that cat here again?"

Mrs. Harpington. It may be explained, had had no hand in the morning's attempted feline massacre. Mrs. Harpington liked the cat. But on the other hand, it wasn't Mrs. Harpington who had to hunt the cat up every evening and lead it to the outside.

"Of course the cat's hiding again, some place," Mrs. Harpington calmly replied, intent upon the latest election news.

"That cat sure has nine lives," muttered the squire pouring a dose of liniment over a badly scratched hand, wounded in the gallant charge under the sofa to "get that blamed cat."

"Why, Abner," mildly chirped Mrs. Harpington. "I wish you'd stop exaggerating so! It is foolish to continue talking about a cat, or anything, having nine lives."

"Is that so?" queried the squire. "Well, I can prove to you that a cat, any cat, has nine lives."

"Really?" smiled Mrs. Harpington. "One cat," explained the squire. "Has one life, hasn't it?" asked the squire. "Certainly," returned Mrs. Harpington. "And you must admit," continued the squire, "that no cat has eight lives."

"I agree with you on that proposition," said Mrs. Harpington. "Well, then," continued the squire, "one cat has one life and eight lives are nine lives, aren't they?"

"That," insisted Mrs. Harpington, "persuades me to the belief that you, being so very smart, know what a biped is."

"Of course I know what a biped is," the squire answered. "A biped is a creature with two legs."

"Which," said Mrs. Harpington, "proves that you are a goose."

"Is that so?" inquired the squire.

"Really?" smiled Mrs. Harpington. "One cat," explained the squire. "Has one life, hasn't it?" asked the squire. "Certainly," returned Mrs. Harpington. "And you must admit," continued the squire, "that no cat has eight lives."

"I agree with you on that proposition," said Mrs. Harpington. "Well, then," continued the squire, "one cat has one life and eight lives are nine lives, aren't they?"

"That," insisted Mrs. Harpington, "persuades me to the belief that you, being so very smart, know what a biped is."

"Of course I know what a biped is," the squire answered. "A biped is a creature with two legs."

"Yes," continued Mrs. Harpington, very pleasantly. "A biped is a creature with two legs; a goose has two, and you have two, therefore you are a goose. Am I right?"

"As nearly right as you usually are," the squire muttered as he beat it for the day.

Advice From Moscow Tell of Appeal Issued by Soviet Government for Overtime Work

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Advice from Moscow say that an appeal has been issued by the soviet government for overtime work, under the heading of "The war with loafers," in which the soviet government declares it cannot tolerate anyone living in the soviet republic at the expense of others. Loafers must be pursued mercilessly.

In one village which refused to fulfill the compulsory labor order, 13 cows have been confiscated and will not be returned until the set task is completed.

Agrarian Reform Act Has Brought Contentment and Satisfaction

JASSY, Rumania, Oct. 29.—Rumania's agrarian reform act giving 5,000,000 acres of state, institutional and private lands to the peasants, has been in operation a year and has brought about a degree of contentment and satisfaction among the population heretofore unknown. For the first time in Rumania's history the peasants have been given outright ownership of land. King Ferdinand was first to give up a part of his large land holdings to the people.

PLANS FOR Y. M. C. A. "WEEK DAY" FAIR

At a recent meeting of the chairman of the various committees of the Y.M.C.A. "Week Day" fair, very favorable reports of progress were made. There is every indication that this will be the most novel and successful fair held in Lowell for some time. There will be offered for sale a great variety of articles, donated by those interested, which the housewife will find particularly useful on the day indicated by the booth at which they are to be sold. On Monday's booth one will find everything necessary for laundering purposes and on imitation clothes lines will be a large variety of kitchen aprons, towels, and so on. On other days of the week the duties of the housewife will be represented by the articles in the booths. A delightful program has been arranged for each evening of the affair and on Thursday afternoon, November 11, when children will be admitted free, there will be a special entertainment by a magician, character reader, and two little dancers. The fair will be run November 10, 11 and 12.

Halloween Party
Tonight in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium there will be a Halloween party under the auspices of the members of the senior class. All members of the "Y" are invited and expected to bring a lady friend. There will be all kinds of games and music.

National Subscription in Italy to Give Bodies of Those Who Fell on Mountain Fronts Proper Sepulchre

ROME, Oct. 29.—A great national subscription is now being made to collect together all the bodies of Italian soldiers who died fighting on the mountain front and are insufficiently buried, all the bones which are whitening on the rocky mountain sides and to give them fitting sepulchre on one of the highest peaks, probably San Michele. It is proposed that a simple, noble monument should be erected under which will rest together oficers and soldiers rich and poor. One of the sad phases of Italy's war on the mountain front was the difficulty of burying those who fell fighting. The soil on the Carso range is such a thin crust over the massive rock of which the mountains are formed that dynamite had often to be used in order to make a sufficiently deep grave especially on those historic peaks like Monte Santo, Monte Nero, the Grappa and the Hermada, where Italian blood flowed like water. The Austrians originally held all the passes there and dominated the Italians at every point but they were taken and re-taken over and over again until the final victory gave them to Italy forever.

PORTUGAL HOTBED OF SUPERSTITION

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 23.—Portugal, always a hotbed of superstition, now is agitated by what is described as "a phantom sewing-machine." Columns of the daily newspapers are filled with letters reporting cases in which a mysterious sound resembling that produced by a sewing-machine has been heard. Other communications are from scientists, philosophers and spiritualists attempting to explain its origin.

The Lisbon newspapers say the strange sound was first heard about three months ago in a house in Oporto at midnight and the newspapers add that hundreds of people have heard the same sound since but at different places.

It is reported that one family abandoned their house at a fashionable bathing resort because they had heard the sound for six successive nights. At Sintra, a young girl is seriously ill from fright and her parents declare they heard the sound for several hours each night apparently coming from the bed railings.

The popular explanation is that the sound of a seamstress has been doomed to haunt the world to expiate a sin and, all through the provinces, the peasants are praying for her repose.

PORT IMPROVEMENTS FOR ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 29.—Extensive port improvement works are proposed for Argentina. Work has begun on improving the port at Comodoro Rivadavia, the outlet for the oil fields. Wharves and warehouses are to be built at a cost of $1,700,000 for taking care of imports and shipment of petroleum. This work is being done by the government.

At Rosario, the second port of the country, it is proposed to spend $3,000,000 gold increasing dockage and warehouse facilities. No important additions have been made to this port for ten years and expansion is said to be badly needed. If the plans made are approved by the Minister of Public Works preparations will be made to execute them immediately.

Trimmed Hats

AT REDUCED PRICES THAT PLACE THE VALUES BEYOND COMPETITION

The Boston Wholesale Millinery Co. is heartily in sympathy with the trend toward lower prices. We believe that it is the duty of every large business house in the country to encourage and foster such a movement until we have returned to a normal condition.

For this reason, we are going to set an example for other millinery concerns to follow. Commencing this morning, we voluntarily slash our prices to a point that must affect millinery prices all over New England for a benefit to the public.

We have not adopted halfway measures—but have gone through our huge stock and have grouped big lots of beautifully trimmed hats at three prices.

Values $1.96 to $3.50 Values $2.96 to $4.96 Values $5.96 to $8.50

CLIMAX OF NIGHTY TRAGEDY

Boston Man Describes Scene in Visit of Pro-League Republicans to President Wilson

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—John F. Moors of Boston gave out last evening the following description of the visit of the Pro-League independents to President Wilson at the White House on Wednesday.

The scene into which the delegation was ushered was like the climax of a mighty tragedy. The sick president, his strong face bearing the indelible marks of his suffering, faced us, sitting as we entered. For each of us, old acquaintance or stranger, he had a pleasant word as we advanced and shook his hand.

Then, as we stood about him in a semicircle, he smiled. And said: "I have two apologies to make, one for not rising—you will understand—the second for offering what my dear father called 'cold tongue.' I must read what I have to say."

As he read, quite audibly, he faltered when he mentioned the young men who had given their lives in the great cause for which America entered the World war and again when he referred to the part which America should now play. He proceeded, however, valiantly, to the end.

When he had finished, Mr. Brown, secretary of the Pro-League Board of Foreign Missions, who was one of the party, found voice to tell the president how many Christian people in the country held him in their hearts and prayed that the blessing of Almighty God might be upon him.

"Thank you, sir," responded the president, adding: "Thank you all for coming. This has been a very cheering occasion for me."

We then filed out silently, and reverently. The inner strength and the outer frailty of the president, his firm promise, the tragic suffering stamped on his full face, his indomitable courage, his courtesy literally shining through his infirmities, his power, all the greater because his voice choked, to lift the issues of the present hour above partisanship and personalities, his patience and his passion, his utter consecration to the cause in which he had fallen made the occasion too solemn for adequate expression now. Some day some master of the English language may find words which will do it justice.

"Loyal Five" and Johnson Meet

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Bun Johnson, president of the American league and representatives of the Philadelphia, Washington, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis clubs met here to take up the proposal that the National baseball commission be abolished and control of the game be placed in the hands of a "civilian tribunal" of three men not financially interested in the game.

The result of the meeting today was expected to determine whether professional baseball would go on smoothly, or be thrown into a factional war, with the entire National league, aided by the New York, Chicago and Boston American league clubs on the one side and Johnson and his "loyal five" on the other.

The plan to establish the "civilian tribunal" has been openly sponsored by 11 clubs while Johnson and five American league club owners have withheld their support.

The 11 clubs supporting the Lasker plan have given the other club owners until next Monday to decide whether or not they will enter into the new proposal, or at least, agree to meet with them and attempt to perfect an agreement whereby the game can be carried on smoothly.

The sentiment preceding the meeting today seemed to signify that a peaceful solution would result.

Should the "loyal five" decline to consider the proposal and the other 11 club owners make good their assertion that they would go ahead under the new plan with a 12 club league, then court action may be the outcome.

Friends of Johnson pointed out that the American league clubs signed a 20 year contract in 1910, providing that all the clubs must remain together, and that for any one of them to join a new league would be in violation of the contract.

Although more than 50 minor league baseball men have attached their signatures to the Lasker plan, President Tom Hickey of the American association and President Dave Fritz have denounced it for not giving minor leagues a part in the selection of the civilian tribunal.

BETTER GO SLOW ON HALLOWEEN TRICKS

Superintendent Welch of the police department is in receipt of several communications especially from residents of the Highlands district in regard to rowdiness at Halloween. One particularly fervent appeal for the aid of the police during the Halloween season states that the tricksters fear only the chief of police. The letter goes on to ask for the warning issued through The Sun last year, and the protection of special officers. "Such tricks as the kicking in of doors, the burning or smashing of blinds and the breaking of milk bottles are included in the pranks they play and you are the only one they fear," said one letter. Another resident of Coral street has sought the protection of the police and has requested that the newspapers announce the warning of the superintendent. Chief Welch will take extra precautions and stated this afternoon that no mercy would be shown destroyers of property. Punishment for conviction of such a crime is by imprisonment or by fine not more than $1000 or both.

Mr. Hartnett had been troubled with a heart weakness since he had an attack of influenza more than a year ago.

He was born in Marlboro and came to Wintthrop about five years ago. He was formerly a member of the Marlboro city council. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Hartnett of Hudson, Michael Hartnett, and one brother, John J. Hartnett of Roxbury.

EFFECTIVE WEAPON FOR FIGHTING BIG STRIKES
STUTTGART, Oct. 22.—German industrial leaders believe they have found an effective weapon for fighting general strikes in the Technische Nothilfe, known in Germany and Denmark as the "Red Cross of industry." As evidence they point to the fact that the organization crushed a general strike in the state of Wurtemberg in five days when that state was menaced with a complete paralysis of all industrial activity.
The Technische Nothilfe was organized at Stuttgart about a year ago and is operating under the direction of the minister of the interior. In normal times only a skeleton office is maintained which occupies itself with preparations for an emergency. Wurtemberg is divided into 100 sub-districts, each of which has a leader whose duty is to prepare a list of volunteers able in emergency to operate all the essential industries of the community. The head offices in the city are furnished with a complete list of such volunteers. The active technical emergency managers of essential industries usually are, rather than as chiefs for these industries and they presumably are non-union men. Among the volunteers listed are university students, engineers, professors in the polytechnic institute and unemployed workmen from every class of society.
The central organization makes provision for bedding, foodstuffs and army kitchens for the volunteers who come by their jobs.
Each volunteer is informed in advance where to report and upon the notification of a strike proceeds to that post where the Technische Nothilfe has delivered supplies considered sufficient for the duration of the strike. It is claimed that in a very short time the central office thus can furnish an operating force for each industry.
The general strike here was called as a protest against the 10 per cent tax on workmen's wages. It was arranged by the communists but adhered to by the majority socialists, the more conservative labor elements and trade unions. Distribution of food ceased and gas, electric and water service was abandoned. The community was confronted with possible chaos when the Technische Nothilfe stepped in, assumed control and managed every essential post, vacated by the strikers, including the highly technical positions.
There was some difficulty in finding men fitted to aid in the heavy work such as being furnace, for few of the volunteers had been accustomed to such labor, but this was solved by working very short shifts. The majority of the 25 men working and living in gas works were polytechnic students.
There were even union labor men among the volunteers, for some of the labor leaders believe that certain industries must be kept going to prevent the collapse of a community and that only the Technische Nothilfe can do this. Some of the conservative labor leaders felt that the control of their organizations might slip out of their hands into those of the extreme radical elements who would tie up all industries if it were not for the Technische Nothilfe. For these reasons they have made no opposition to union men volunteering for service with that organization.
The strike began at midnight Saturday, the volunteers were ordered on duty Sunday morning and by Monday morning the industries were functioning on the reduced capacities but by Wednesday morning normal production had been attained.
Motor trucks were requisitioned for the distribution of food to the volunteers, and an appeal was issued to labor, philanthropic and social organizations to aid in protecting the workers and property. The members of the Technische Nothilfe are under obligations to carry no arms.
In less than five days the strikers began to return to work and as each one took his place, a member of the Technische Nothilfe quit, unostentatiously and in less than a week the strikers were again at their posts.
Chiefs of the Technische Nothilfe in charge of industrial plants at Stuttgart were carefully instructed to obtain written statements as to the condition of the plants when the strikers returned, so that the radicals could not subsequently practice sabotage and charge that it was the work of the Technische Nothilfe.

WILSON THE MAN BY TUMULTY

Intimate Picture Based on Ten Years as His Private Secretary

Sorrowed Over Need of Ordering Men to War—
Never Played to Gallery

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—An intimate picture "of the manner of man this Woodrow Wilson really is," based on 10 years as his private secretary and touched here and there with hitherto unpublished incidents in the president's official life, was drawn last night by Joseph P. Tumulty, speaking at a democratic mass meeting, just over the line in Maryland.

Mr. Tumulty described the president as "a man strangely misunderstood by some and as comely misrepresented by others as any man in the whole history of American politics." He had long desired, he said, to tell the country what he knew of Mr. Wilson's character, but had refrained in the knowledge that the president "who shrinks from self-exploitation" would resent exposure by his friend.

With the approach of Mr. Wilson's retirement to private life, however, Sec. Tumulty continued, "it seems to be not improper that just before the curtain rises on the last act I modestly step out from my obscurity in the wings, and tell the audience a few things about the leading actor in the great drama of the past eight years."

"Strange to Applaud War Message"

Recalling his 10 years in the "intimate relationship of a private secretary," the speaker said:

"I may be presumed to know at least as much about him as the gentlemen who discourse volubly of him in Pullman smokers, on the golf links and in the clubs, who assure you that all they say is fact, for they had it on the word of a friend who passed through Washington once and heard a man say that another man said, etc."

Among incidents on which he drew to relate his subject, Mr. Tumulty recalled the reaction of the president to the applause which greeted delivery of his war message to congress on April 6, 1917.

"On that fateful day," Tumulty said, "I rode with him back from the capitol to the White House, the echo of the applause still ringing in my ears. For a while he sat silent and pale in the cabinet room. At last he said: 'Think what it was they were applauding. It was death for our young men. How strange it seems to applaud that.'"

"That simple remark," Sec. Tumulty continued, "is one key to an understanding of Woodrow Wilson," who, he said, hated and dreaded war with "all of the fibers of his human soul."

Carried Deaths on His Heart

As further evidence of the president's sense of responsibility in the bloodshed by American soldiers, Mr. Tumulty told of the day when news came of American casualties at Vera

NOTED SUFFRAGIST ISSUES STATEMENT

Mrs. Annie M. Sloan, of Buffalo, Declares She Would Not Take All the Money In the World For Good Tanlac Did Her

"I will just say frankly I think Tanlac is perfectly wonderful and I wouldn't take all the money in the world for the good it has done me," said Mrs. Annie M. Sloan, recently, residing at 275 Huntington Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Sloan has resided in Buffalo for the past forty years and is very prominent in club circles, being an active member of the Buffalo City Club, the Lincoln Republican Club, and the Women Voters League.

She represented the women of her city in their appeal to the United States Senate at Washington when the Suffrage Bill was first introduced, and was honored with a membership to the Washington Suffrage Club.

Mrs. Sloan is also deeply interested in church and charity work. Her statement regarding the benefit she has derived from Tanlac will be of widespread interest. She said:

"I have only been taking Tanlac about four weeks, but I am already feeling better than I have felt in years. Why, it just seems as though I have been awarded a new lease on life, and I would be doing an injustice to others who are trying to find relief not to tell what this grand medicine has done for me."

"Some time ago I was compelled to undergo an operation for gallstones, after which I got along very well until about a year and a half ago, when Cruz in 1911.

"When the news came," he said, "the president was quiet all day. He went about his business methodically, with his usual clear judgment and prompt decisions, but that night he sat silent for a long time. At last he said: 'I cannot get it off my heart. It had to be done. It was right. Nothing else was possible, but I cannot forget that it was I who had to order those young men to their deaths.'"

Earlier that year, when word came "that a German vessel, laden with munitions, was on its way to Mexico," President Wilson talked over the telephone with Secs. Bryan and Daniels, and Mr. Tumulty said he also was on the telephone during the conversation. When the situation had been stated to the president, he said, the voice came back clear and firm: "Order Admiral Mayo to take Vera Cruz at once."

"Just before I cut off the connection," Sec. Tumulty continued, "I said a word to the president about the tragedy of it all. His voice responded, no longer clear, but muffled, as when one chokes back a sob: 'What do you think of it, Tumulty? It means death.

I had a very severe bilious attack. These attacks became frequent and with each one I would have to remain in bed for four or five days."

"About six weeks ago I had another of these attacks and was in such awful pain I almost gave up hope. This spell left me without any energy and so weak I could hardly walk across the room."

"Tanlac has relieved my troubles entirely. I am enjoying splendid health now and am brimful of new strength and energy. Everyone should know of Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Greens drug store, Merrimack square, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

It breaks my heart, but it must be done."

His Courage and Sternness

Sec. Tumulty recalled also Mr. Wilson's determination to ride in the funeral procession of the marines and sailors killed at Vera Cruz when the bodies were brought to New York. Disquieting rumors that an attack was planned on his life had reached secret service men, Mr. Tumulty said, and "one undertook to argue with him saying, 'You will show all proper respect by appearing in the review stand. The country cannot afford to lose its president.'"

"His reply was: 'The country cannot afford to have a coward for president.' This was his brief and final answer. He rode in the procession."

The sternness of Woodrow Wilson, his secretary declared, was "just the reverse side of his humane nature" and made "nothing more natural" than that he should have become the champion of small nations. The president's insistence upon Article 10 of the League covenant was explained as a wish to forestall the necessity of United States going to war by making

It a participant "in a plan to prevent the beginning of such a war."

"He wished to stop the next war before it should begin," Mr. Tumulty said.

His Credit For Mining North Sea

In contrast to Mr. Wilson's self-proclaimed "passion for peace," Sec. Tumulty declared that "when the challenge came from Germany to America, when the American mind was ready for war—this same Woodrow Wilson became the most uncompromising advocate of the most stringent measures for conducting the war, thereby to hasten the end of the war."

The speaker recalled the president's speech to officers of the Atlantic fleet in 1917, published long after, in which he said: "I am willing to sacrifice half the navy Great Britain and we together have to crush the submarine nest."

"It was he," Sec. Tumulty continued, "who insisted on mining the North Sea to cut off the German horsetails. Experts said that it could not be done. The civilian Wilson said it could be done, must be done, and it was. It was the civilian Wilson who broached the plan for combining the allied powers in the west under the supreme command of Gen. Foch in order that all the allied forces could be concentrated on the German forces to crush them."

"In his mind the supreme object of this war was to end war."

"Not in Him to Play to Gallery"

The "grave fault" which Sec. Tumulty asserted he found with the President was his ignorance of "how to play to the gallery."

"He does not know how to capitalize his virtues for the front pages of the newspapers," he said. "He is dreadfully poor publicity material. Human from his heart to his finger tips, he does not know how to put his humanity on exhibition."

"As his friend and admirer, I have loved him better because he didn't. There was something too fine in his nature for the dramatics and posturing of the political game as it is usually played."

The secretary told of a journalist who wished to have the president "do one of the stunts that the public dearly loves to read about" and of the comment of the president.

"He said to me: 'Tumulty, you must realize that I am not built for these things. I do not want to be displayed before the public. If I tried to do it I would do it badly. I want people to love me, but they never will.'"

"I have never forgotten the wistful tones in which he spoke those last four words: 'But they never will.'"

Sec. Tumulty said.

Two final pictures Mr. Tumulty said he desired to draw, the first, that of the president in 1917, "a straight, vigorous, slender man, active and alert."

"He is 60 years of age," he said, "but he looks not more than 45, so lithe of limb, so alert of bearing, so virile. It is Woodrow Wilson reading his great war message."

"The other picture is only three and a half years later. There is a parade of veterans of the great war. They are to be reviewed by the president on the east terrace of the White House. In a chair sits a man, your president, broken in health, but still alert in mind. His hair is white, his shoulders bowed, his figure bent. He is 63 years old, but he looks older. It is Woodrow Wilson."

"Presently in the procession there appears an ambulance laden with wounded soldiers, the maimed and the halt and blind. As they pass they salute slowly, reverently."

"The president's right hand goes up in answering salute. I glanced at him. There were tears in his eyes. The wounded is greeting the wounded; these in the ambulance, he in the chair are alike, casualties of the great war."

"I don't believe in his heart President Wilson regrets his wounds. I fancy he realizes no man could die in a greater cause, but I do sometimes wonder if it ever seems to him strange that when a man has been seriously wounded in his country's service that he should be met with sneers and calumnies from his countrymen."

ROOSEVELT-RATHOM SUIT FOR $500,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic candidate for vice president, yesterday filed papers in a suit for $500,000 against John R. Rathom, editor and publisher of the Providence Journal, and Scott C. Bone and Edward B. Clark, manager and assistant manager of publicity for the republican national committee. Mr. Roosevelt charges the defendants with circulating false and defamatory libel.

An editorial in the Providence Journal charged that Mr. Roosevelt had sequestered or destroyed navy department records and that he had sought personally to return to the ships of the navy men convicted of various crimes. Mr. Roosevelt made public denial of the charges and then Mr. Rathom sent him a letter outlining specific cases referred to in the editorial. The letter also was published in the Providence Journal.

Mr. Bone and Mr. Clark are made defendants because it is charged by Mr. Roosevelt they widely circulated the letter as republican propaganda.

4000 IN REPUBLICAN TORCHLIGHT PARADE

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Though the rain sadly diminished the number of marchers, the Harding and Coolidge torchlight parade took place in Boston last night according to schedule and in view of the adverse weather conditions members of the republican state committee felt that the last big gun of the republican campaign in Massachusetts was fired with gratifying results.

Plans had been made for 22,000 marchers carrying 15,000 torches. The torches were available all right but if every man, woman and child in the parade had carried a torch on each shoulder there would have been nearly 10,000 to spare. To say that there were 1000 marchers in line is treating those who have worked on the plans for the parade for the past month grossly. The police estimated the number in line at 3000. The entire parade took exactly 39 minutes to pass through Newspaper row.

But the comparatively little group of loyal supporters of the G.O.P. who braved the drizzle and plodded with soaked feet and perspiring brows through the wet and slippery streets and hazy atmosphere endeavored to make up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers.

While many were surprised that the parade was so small, those who turned out to watch it were more surprised at the amount of company they had. While there were comparatively few spectators in lower Washington street—Newspaper row—Beacon hill, Tremont and Boylston streets and Park square were jammed, especially in certain localities where some shelter was available. It was estimated that between 50,000 and 60,000 persons were out to see the parade. The police set the figure at 50,000.

The parade itself measured up to the expectations of those who turned out to see it, what there was of it. Few of the "big guns" scheduled to appear were deterred by the rain, and Lieut. Gov. Channing H. Cox led the march as scheduled, with most of those who were appointed to his staff.

Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Channing Cox also refused to allow the rain to prevent their appearance at the head of the women's division, but for some reason or other few of those in the crowds who watched the parade seemed to recognize Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Cox. Mrs. Bird presented a striking figure, however, dressed entirely in white.

The rain wrought havoc in the ranks of the women's division, and it was evident an hour before the parade started that the fair sex don't care for wet weather. Ten thousand women were scheduled to march. Less than 100 women were in the first division, though many more were scattered through other divisions.

The dots were absent, also, for in the entire parade there were not more than half a dozen of these mobile symbols. The two floats that attracted the most attention were the one immediately following the chief marshal and his staff, in which six young women stood in voting booths under a sign which read: "The Ladies Are With Us," and that of "The Shoe Men and Women Voters," which consisted of a huge white shoe inside of which sat a pretty girl. This float bore a sign proclaiming "We have faith in our Calvin Coolidge."

Lieut. Gov. Cox and his staff wore white capes, with red and white sashes. Behind them came members of the republican state ticket and the republican congressmen, together with a number of the republican right-hand men of the state. Just behind Lieut. Gov. Cox and Col. John W. Barrett, his chief of staff, were the national and state flags, which were illuminated by searchlights from the "women voters" float and two men who carried searchlights strapped to their waists.

Mr. Cox and the other members of the state ticket were given a rousing reception, especially on Beacon hill and at the reviewing stand on

HOMES FOR WORKERS

Industrial Homes and Gardens will Make for Success in Future Manufacturing

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Industrial homes and gardens are to be one of the major elements of the many factors that make for success in future manufacturing in the opinion of the special committee which submitted a report today to the Associated Industries of Massachusetts at its annual meeting. B. Preston Clark of the Plymouth

Cordage Co., was chairman of the committee and the other members were Henry S. Denison of the Dennis Manufacturing Co., Richard H. Rice of the General Electric Co., Clifford S. Anderson of the Norton Co. of Worcester, and Thomas T. Clark of the Valley Mills, North Yarmouth. A hundred years ago the great bulk of Massachusetts citizens were home and land owners, but today while accurate figures are not available, said the report, it is safe to say that less than five per cent of the industrial workers of the state own their own homes. Aside from the actual money worth of the food that could be grown, the report found a garden of value in giving the worker a chance to use the extra time that the shorter day of labor brings, and a chance to satisfy the creative impulse.

"The tired brain cells rest" continued the report, "and the man comes back from his garden rested and contented. This is not romance. It is what really happens. History shows no race of people who have owned land they cultivated who became revolutionaries. Russia, France, Mexico, all blew up because the people could not get land."

The report presented figures of the cost of labor overturn in certain large industrial plants and pointed out that homes and gardens would automatically reduce this cost. It suggested that a worker before he invested his savings in a house should be made to feel reasonably sure of regular employment and relieved of the fear of arbitrary discharge.

"Our impression," said the report, "is that in a plan of this sort there should be some provision by which a man can be assured that if he wishes to sell, for any reason, the company will buy at a fair price. On the other hand, we do not think he should be compelled to leave the company. There should be just as few strings on the houses and gardens as is consistent with the reasonable protection of the company. There is one other angle from which this matter may be thought of,

Looking at the Hat You Ought to Buy—And Buying the Hat You Haven't Looked at

That happens to a lot of women. DON'T LET IT HAPPEN TO YOU THIS FALL.

Here's what they do. They go into a store and ask for a good hat and try it on. So far so good. That's the only way to get a good, satisfactory, stylish hat. Then they go somewhere else and try on a hat a little lower in price. That old dollar gets in front of their eyes and after that they can't see anything but price. Pretty soon they aren't looking at anything but price marks. The hat they finally buy is one they literally HAVEN'T LOOKED AT.

No woman ever looked her best in a hat bought because it seemed "cheaper" than the one she wanted.

It is on that theory that the BROADWAY WHOLESALE MILLINERY CO. asks and merits your patronage; for where every hat is right, you can not go wrong.

Do not be confused by the supposed "Bargains" offered about town by concerns over-anxious to attract your attention. Remember, please, while the Broadway Wholesale Millinery Co. assures you always of the highest quality of materials and the latest and most authentic styles, BUYING YOUR HAT HERE IS INEXPENSIVE, assured so by our direct-to-wearer, chain store, wholesale price method, saving you 1-3 to 1-2 the profits others ask.

BROADWAY ALWAYS SATISFIES

The chb of labor from the farms to industry is a national fact today. It may prove, by the method which we have suggested, possible to bring farms to the people when it is not possible or perhaps desirable to induce the people to go to the farms. It may be that with the shorter day, the worker will become a two job man instead of a one job man, and that this change will bring a better balance into our industrial life. In touching this matter we can feel it is done at a time when there is a better feeling between employers and workers in Massachusetts than for many years. We have much farther to go in industrial relations, but we are making headway."

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

Late yesterday afternoon a verdict in the sum of $500 was rendered for the plaintiff in the case of Louisa M. Hannaford of Lexington vs. the Charles River Trust Co. of Cambridge, which was tried at the local civil session of the superior court. The plaintiff sued to recover $5000 and interest thereon, claiming that she was the holder of a mortgage which she put up as security for a loan procured by her at the defendant bank, and she alleged that when the loan was paid, instead of reassigning the mortgage, the bank discharged it.

FRUIT CANNING CONTEST

Prizes in the fruit canning contest which was held at the Charles W. Morey school Wednesday under the direction of Miss Forbes of the Middlesex county farm bureau, were awarded as follows: Miss Jessie Ross 27½; Ernestine Brigham, 25½; and Eleanor Valliant, 24½. The other contestants, all of whom received a percentage higher than 20 were Margaret Ryan, Dorothy McElholm, Ada Lamberton and Myrtle Roll.

NARROW ESCAPE

Men Thrown Over Bridge Into Concord River Swim Ashore—Horse Good Swimmer, Too
Seraphia Marchand, a Mr. Polier and a Mr. Lavoie, all three residents of South Lowell, had a narrow escape from drowning last evening, when the buggy in which they were riding toppled over the Lawrence street bridge into the Concord river. Fortunately, the three men were able to swim and they "popped" their way to shore. The horse, which was hitched to the rig, also managed to swim to shore. The buggy was badly damaged.

It seems that the rig, which is owned by Mr. Marchand was proceeding across the bridge, which is being repaired, when suddenly an automobile operated by Joseph Schofield of 33 England street, made its appearance on the bridge. The horse, becoming frightened, reared into the air and side-stepped to the edge of the bridge and fell into the water, dragging along the buggy and its three occupants.

FATHER AND SON

Men of Round Table of the First Baptist Church Hear Interesting Address by Y.M.C.A. Secretary
The necessity of closer relationship between father and son was the subject of an address given last night by Byron N. Clark, Vermont state secretary of the Y.M.C.A., at a meeting of the Men of the Round Table of the First Baptist church. Previous to the speaking and the business meeting a dinner was served by the Ladies of the Benevolent society. At the close of the dinner popular songs were sung by the men and boys and short addresses were given by Edward Hancock, pastor of the church, and H. E. Howe, secretary of the local Y.M.C.A. Harry L. Woodman, president of the organization, presided.
"The boy problem," said Mr. Clark, "is new every time a new generation comes on the scene, but it is also an old, old problem. The very government of our great country depends upon our solution, so that it behooves us to use the greatest possible care in our relations with our boys."
"Every father can realize what a problem a boy is. First, he is a great economic problem. I have just been paying the bills at my boys' camp and I realize how much it costs to feed a real, live, active boy. I also realize how a boy will tear clothes and shoes to pieces, tear carpets and rugs and scar floors and furniture, but more than all else I realize how some parents think more of the condition of the rugs and furniture than they do of the social and moral condition of their boys. Of course a boy spends most of his early childhood with his mother but isn't it a fact that at the critical time of a boy's life the strong love and confidence of a father is what he most needs?"
"The boy problem will never be solved until the man problem has been solved, for whatever a boy sees his father do that is what the boy will do. A boy is a true hero worshipper and no matter what his father may tell him to do he will always follow his father's leadership. It must be perfectly clear to you men here, that it is necessary for you to get into closer touch with your boy in order that he may see that you do nothing of which you will be ashamed of and thus lead him to a true Christian life which is the main thing in the life of a boy."

SAYS LUSTANIA CARRIED ARMS FOR ENGLAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Dudley Field Malone, candidate for governor on the farmer-labor ticket, and former collector of the port of New York, in an address last night, declared that when the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine, she carried a consignment of 4900 cases of cartridges for the British government which contained nearly 11 tons of black powder. The assertion was made in citing the case of Senator LaFollette who charged that the Lusitania carried explosives for the British.

"When the record of the Wilson administration becomes a matter of open history," Mr. Malone declared, "the world will realize that no government ever perpetrated such a reign of oppression and secrecy upon a people."

Mr. Malone said that when Senator LaFollette declared that the Lusitania carried explosives consigned to the British government, he was "immediately slated for expulsion from the senate, and, as we all remember, came within a hair's breadth of that fate."

"When Senator LaFollette was on trial before the senate elections committee within his right as a senator," he continued, "he demanded from the treasury department a copy of the report of the collector of the port of New York, on condition and cargo of the Lusitania, the state department refused him on the ground that the report had become a part of the secret archives. As it happened, I wrote this report on the Lusitania because I had examined the Lusitania in my capacity as collector of the port of New York."

And it was agreed upon the evidence supplied by me that the Lusitania was not armed, that President Wilson wrote his famous second Lusitania note to the German imperial government. But in my view, the ruthlessness of the German U-boat warfare could not justify the Washington administration in persecuting Senator LaFollette for telling the truth, nor could German militarism be offered as a reason for refusing to tell the American people just what the Lusitania had on board when she was sunk."

"I considered then and I consider now that the persecution of LaFollette on a charge which the administration knew to be false from evidence in its own possession was a frame-up on Senator LaFollette and a fraud on the American people."

"When I heard that Senator LaFollette was refused access to my report I informed his counsel and told his counsel to inform the government that I would testify in support of the senator's statements and that I would not remain silent and see any man crucified for telling the truth. Whereupon the trial was postponed from week to week and finally dropped. It has been admitted by the German admiralty that the Lusitania was struck by a German torpedo. But it will never be known whether or not there was a second explosion in the Lusitania's cargo which made her sink before she could be beached."

We do not know and never will know actually what was in all the boxes and cases which made up this cargo. But we did know that there was one consignment on board the Lusitania of 4200 cases of Springfield metallic cartridges, each case containing 1000 cartridges, with five pounds of black powder to each 1000 cartridges. Therefore, there was concentrated in one consignment in the hold of the vessel an shipment of nearly 11 tons of black powder, which by the impact of the torpedo may very well have contributed to the incredibly rapid sinking of the great liner. The other consignments of ammunition and shrapnel known to have been on the Lusitania were consigned to the British government, but contained no explosives.

"President Wilson was perfectly right when he denied the charge made by the German government that the Lusitania was armed. She was not armed. But the administration was dead wrong when it sought to keep from public knowledge all the facts about the Lusitania case."

"No matter what may be the individual opinions on the Lusitania or any other question of public importance, we must teach our political leaders and our government that the American people are not afraid to learn the whole truth about anything, and are willing to draw their own conclusions, when all the facts are presented. The autocratic suppression of the truth through the arrogant bureaucracy of the leaders of both old parties is merely another reason why the people at this election are seeking for a new kind of administration, politics and government."

CARTOON APPROVED BY G. O. P. LEADERS

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—The now famous cartoon depicting President Wilson as "The Greatest He Angel" and making comic sport of the Sacred Heart and the Immaculate Conception, had the approval of the directors of the national republican party campaign.

The fact that it had the official stamp of approval of those entrusted with the management of the Harding campaign is believed to be proved by the fact that the cartoon appeared on October 9 last in the National Republican, the organ of the national republican party, published in Washington, D. C.

In further evidence of its having met the favor of the leaders of the republican party it is pointed out that the cartoon appeared during the past several weeks in the leading republican newspapers of the west and south, and that on no occasion has there been a protest against its continued use.

The publication of this cartoon within the past week in the periodical of George Harvey, close friend and adviser of the republican standard bearer, after it had been used for weeks in leading republican papers and in the national organ of the party, published at the capital of the nation, is believed indubitably to place the responsibility of the publication of this cartoon with the inner circle that is running the national republican campaign.

The time for the opening of the meeting is set at 8 o'clock so that attendants of evening schools in the city may visit the club after classes. Invitation is extended by the directors of the club to all women of the city to be present so that the duty of voting on the following day will be made easier for them. The meeting will not take the form of a discussion of party issues or candidates.

So as to make the voting demonstration as nearly practical as possible, a ballot box will be used and the women will be shown the correct way of marking and depositing ballots. The program committee of the club will be in charge of the meeting and they will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock to complete arrangements. Those on the committee are: Helen Kelly, chairman; Blanche McKay, Mary O'Brien, Beatrice McDonald, and Gertrude McGahy.

RIGHT HAND FRACTURED
Ushea Vase of Arch street, an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad, is confined in the Lowell General hospital as a result of an accident which occurred at the engine house, Middlesex Village, about midnight, when he was engaged in filling an engine water-tender. Vase's right hand was fractured. He is kept under observation at the hospital as the doctors suspect that developments in regard to internal injuries may arise. Vase was working on an engine tender under a water-spout. In some way the spout was swung around so that it struck him in the stomach and hand, throwing him to the ground. He was taken immediately to the hospital.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK

As election day approaches, there is a tendency to get greatly excited over rumors and roborations; but it is now too late to try to overturn things political unless by a general sweep of public sentiment all over the country, the fortunes of one party or the other should be put under an ominous cloud that would portend defeat.

Two weeks ago the outlook for the democratic party was rather discouraging but there has been a revulsion of sentiment that has totally changed the situation and now, the eleventh hour, presents an encouraging prospect of democratic victory.

Governor Cox is very confident of carrying his own state and New York which seemed to be leaning toward Harding, is now in the doubtful column with assurances of strong support for the democratic candidate.

So the story goes very largely throughout the country except in Massachusetts; but even here there has been a very pronounced change in favor of Cox.

Humphrey O'Sullivan, who has been the leading democratic worker in this part of the state, is among the recent subscribers to the democratic campaign, having sent his check for $100. It is reported from national democratic headquarters that contributions have been coming in rapidly during the past week and especially during the past few days.

These indications mean more than the straw votes conducted by some newspapers without any guarantee that they have been genuine or even fairly conducted.

Democrats have but to keep up the fight for victory until the polls close on Tuesday and then whether victory or defeat comes, accept it gracefully as the verdict of the sovereign people. The republicans who have been looking forward to a large slide in favor of their candidate will have a rude awakening when the votes are counted.

CREATURE OF THE LOBBY

John Jackson Walsh has brought the indictment against Channing Cox that he is the "creature of the lobby" at the state house and that, if elected governor, he would not dare to veto laws that a certain lawyer "king of the lobbyists" had been instrumental in having passed by the legislature.

This man's record should be well known to the voters of the commonwealth. He is nominally a Boston lawyer. He has seldom practiced law but one court, however, and that is the one that holds its session in the legislative chambers on Beacon hill.

The "big interests," who appreciate the value of having a veto power to exercise over legislation that is not pleasing to them, have a very intimate acquaintance with the lobby leader and his business. What it will mean to him, and the interests he represents, to have Channing Cox, his crony and "creature" in the governor's chair, may be imagined.

John Jackson Walsh is not the first or the only one to call attention to the republican lobby that stands ready at the behest of the "big interests" to defeat the will of the people. Republicans, themselves, have talked about it for years. Some of the more fearless of them have denounced it. Alvan T. Fuller has likened it to "All Baba and his band of forty thieves." Joseph Warner, speaker of the house of representatives, has called it a "festering sore."

"Where legislation is bought and sold, legislators are bought and sold," says John Jackson Walsh. Do the voters of Massachusetts wish to turn their state house completely over to the control of the lobby? Do they wish to make the legislature a marketplace for the buying and selling of votes and laws? A good way to reach such an end would be to elect Channing Cox governor. It would place the money-changers in complete control of the temple of legislation.

The election of John Jackson Walsh, and his associates on the democratic ticket, will serve notice upon the unholy traffickers, who mock at honesty and decency in government, that their days of ascendancy are over.

THE WOMEN'S VOTE

The unknown quantity that may upset all calculations in this election is the women's vote.

In the last presidential election the total vote cast was about 1,840,000. In the coming election the male vote will be perhaps 2,000,000 and it is difficult to estimate the female vote although it is likely to exceed 1,000,000. Just how that neutral political force will affect the fortunes of the two political parties is problematical. If the support of the women be divided almost equally between the two great parties its effect would be neutral as to political results. But we are inclined to believe that the women's vote will not be swayed by partisan considerations. Everywhere women are seeking light on political questions, by forming classes and organizing clubs through which to fit themselves for the exercise of the franchise. They have studied the form of government in which they are now to take an important part; they have practiced voting and they have attended political meetings to hear issues discussed. Politicians have been rather shocked at the refusal of the women to drop into the rut of partisan politics and vote same as did their fathers, husbands or brothers.

Women voters are approaching the exercise of the franchise with a more serious mind and more earnest purpose to do the right thing so far as they are given to see and understand their duty. It is safe to assume that the women voters will be instinctively guided in doing what they believe will best serve the nation and whether that purpose will lead most of them to vote for Governor Cox or Senator Harding remains to be determined. There has been a wonderful outpouring of women to the support of the democratic leaders; but the great question is as to how the majority will vote. At present, indications tend to show that Governor Cox will receive considerably more than half the women's vote.

DEMOCRATIC MISMANAGEMENT?

"For eight years the general management of the United States has been disastrously incompetent."—New York Tribune.

Was the passage of the Federal Reserve banking bill a disastrous blunder?

Is freedom from financial panics a national calamity?

Was the establishment of farm loan banks a frightful mistake?

Was the submission of the prohibition amendment to the constitution proof of incompetency?

Was suffrage a democratic failure?

Were the Liberty Loans failures?

Was the army of more than 4,000,000 men a failure?

Was the sending of more than 2,600,000 men overseas gross mismanagement?

Were their victories in battle errors?

Was the draft law and its enforcement a profound example of folly?

Was the rapid demobilization and return to a peace basis a failure?

Was the construction of a merchant marine of first magnitude evidence of incompetence?

WHICH WILL YOU HAVE?

How would you like to have a wiggle wobble president who would stultify himself by contradictory statements, thereby placing himself on both sides of every great question and at the same time wriggling and writhing in an effort to sustain both positions, showing himself to be lacking in decision, clear-sightedness, courage and veracity? If you want such a man hit the White House to preside over the destinies of this nation for the next four years, you will of course vote for the republican candidate; but if you want a clear-headed man of positive convictions and aggressive qualities, a man who has demonstrated his superior worth as an executive and an administrator, then you will cast your vote in favor of Governor Cox for president.

It is not inspiring to hear republicans denounce Channing Cox as unfit for the office of governor and then say that they intend to cast their ballots for him. It would seem sometimes as though even the Black Crook might get a respectable vote if he were a candidate for office on the G.O.P. ticket.

It is a spectacle for gods and men to see Henry Cabbage Lodge shedding tears in public over the memory of Roosevelt, and then recall some of the things that the "arch conspirator" said about Teddy when he was progressive candidate for president.

Now that we have heard the invitation of the young women of the Y.W.C.A. to men to foregather with them to listen to the election returns, we should like to receive the information of the expected democratic victory.

A man says that his wife learned to operate an automobile in half a day; that he learned from her in a couple of hours, and now they both have licenses. Do you still wonder at the number of auto accidents?

The humorist who changed the figure "13" on the Lowell street sign so that it read "speed limit 15 miles an hour" might have concluded to make it read "145 miles" if he had looked about him a little.

It seems a bit curious that the park commission should decide to expend the city's money for tearing up a public park to make a tennis court with an unimproved playground only a short distance away.

The way in which republicans refer to their campaign fund as being "only" $1,000,000 indicates what they look upon as chicken-feed small change when it comes to buying the presidency.

Seattle merchants have decided, by an overwhelming vote, that the daily newspaper is the best advertising medium. Lowell merchants are ready to join in a hearty "Amen."

If Superintendent of Police Welch's instructions are carried out by the cops, something almost as bad as the gobbins may get Halloween disturbances in the vicinity of Lowell.

You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink. Likewise, you can grant suffrage to women, but you can't compel them to take an interest in politics.

A chance to rest ought not to be thrown to the thousands of Lowell boys that have been throwing so indiscreetly for the last half-dozen years.

One of the greatest troubles with the mark-down sales is that previous mark-downs have left us so little money with which to patronize them.

The name of "Cox" alone is equal to a hundred of votes of newspaper headline writers, to whom long words in general are anathema.

All will be forgiven the promoters if the long-delayed price reductions get around in time to affect the buying of Christmas presents.

We are surprised to see the Boston Globe talking about the records of the women voters that they were made at Washington.

Channing Cox, heading a torchlight parade, should have been flanked by the "King of the Lobby."

Put another nail in John Barrymore's coffin—defeat, 275 per cent here.

Finally the campaign treasury will be put under the seal.

Appropos of the University of Pennsylvania's Assyrian tablets, exonerating Eve from all complicity in the sad business of the apple, Mrs. William Verbert, president of the Working Girls' Vacation society, said in New York: "So, Eve didn't tempt Adam after all? So Adam fell of his own accord? Well, I'm not surprised. It reminds me of Mr. Downe. 'Does Mr. Downe bear his misfortune like a man?' a lady asked. 'Exactly like a man,' answered another lady. 'He blames all on his wife.'"

Very Bad Break

May was about to marry Mr. Moneybags, and it was a case of May and December. The man was old and rich and she was young and fair. A grand party was given to celebrate the betrothal and one of the guests was requested by the hostess to oblige with a song.

"Yes, do sing, Mr. Sweetheart," remarked the prospective bride. "Do you happen to remember, My Sweetheart, when a boy?"

"Great Scott!" exclaimed the vocalist. "Remember him? You must take me for a centenarian."

He was not invited to the wedding.

Sorry He Spoke

"Maria!" roared Mr. Gayboy, "where on earth is my hat?"

"It is under my foot," retorted his wife, coldly, still showing signs of the family scene which had marked hubby's return home in the wee small hours.

"You ought to," snorted the man. "I can't keep a thing about this house. It's a shame the way things disappear without any apparent reason. I would just like to know where my hat is!"

"So would I," replied the lady meaningly. "You didn't have it on when you came home last night."

Down by the brook, where vines hung low,

Lazy Lucy loved to go;

Loved to watch the swaying vine,

Precious hours of a summer's day.

Once on a time, quite unaware, Lazy Lucy slumbered there— Long, long ago—and as she slept Lay the vine around her feet. Wrapped her arms and hid her face! Loudly a robin sang near by:

"Lazy Lucy, wake and fly! Mischance has bound you fast!"

Lazy Lucy heard at last.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

"A little child shall lead them," I dropped into the B. F. Keith theatre the other evening just as the act of Charles Anderson and Leonard Sweet was starting. They are experts on roller skates, and they performed some startling stunts that showed unusual skill and training as well as muscular strength. After their act had come to its whirlwind climax they stood for a moment bowing in acknowledgment of the applause of the audience before retiring behind the scenes. Then a little child tottered onto the stage. He was a little girl—if she isn't, apologies are extended to him. I will take a chance and continue to use the pronoun "she." She stood for a moment by the side of her elders, smiling amiably and bowing her head. A great wave of applause swept over the footlights and the audience caught sight of the youngster. It didn't cease either when the fall of the act drop shut out the trio from view. After it had continued for awhile, the orchestra tried to break in. It was no use—the applause increased in volume. It was plain that having made the acquaintance of the little person, the audience was still gathering information and data.

The matter of having some method of fare collection whereby every conductor will be obliged to turn in to the company some unit of fare, either a coupon ticket or cash, was discussed at length. Secretary Curtis read a letter from Chairman Homer Lorin of the trustees, replying to a request for information from the committee, in which he said that the cost of the Lowell district during July was $11,000.27 and in August $12,117.41. In August the wages were figured at the new rate and from August to December, inclusive the letter said, one-fifth of the retroactive pay due motormen and conductors will be added to the operating expenses each month.

Manager Lees said that this would amount to between $10,000 and $12,000 per month.

In response to a question from Mr. Crowley, Manager Lees said that when the amount of the increase in the known 20 men in the track department of the Lowell district were paid at five or six in the repair department, three at the power station and four elsewhere.

Mr. Crowley explained that the August statement showed that about $1200 had been included for the increase in wages, although the wage increase did not actually come until September. The August statement was not made up until after the middle of September and for that reason the

HOME RULE COMMITTEE

Discusses Fare Collection Methods—Employees' Honesty is Defended

The home rule committee made little progress in its recommendations for fare reductions on the local lines of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. at its meeting at city hall last night.

The matter of having some method of fare collection whereby every conductor will be obliged to turn in to the company some unit of fare, either a coupon ticket or cash, was discussed at length. The company's officials said that the coupon ticket had proved a failure in Lowell because it opened an avenue of temptation to conductors.

However, Trustee Fred J. Crowley defended the bulk of employees of the Lowell district, saying that many of them need no supervision whatever.

Manager Lees reported that he had investigated the renting of a store in Merrimack square to be used as a waiting room but had found the rental price prohibitive.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Sullivan at 4.10. Messrs. Sullivan, Curtis, Wells, Carney, Molloy and Durfee of the committee were present, together with Manager Lees and Mr. Crowley of the board of trustees.

Secretary Curtis read a letter from Chairman Homer Lorin of the trustees, replying to a request for information from the committee, in which he said that the cost of the Lowell district during July was $11,000.27 and in August $12,117.41.

In August the wages were figured at the new rate and from August to December, inclusive the letter said, one-fifth of the retroactive pay due motormen and conductors will be added to the operating expenses each month.

Manager Lees said that this would amount to between $10,000 and $12,000 per month.

In response to a question from Mr. Crowley, Manager Lees said that when the amount of the increase in the known 20 men in the track department of the Lowell district were paid at five or six in the repair department, three at the power station and four elsewhere.

Mr. Crowley explained that the August statement showed that about $1200 had been included for the increase in wages, although the wage increase did not actually come until September. The August statement was not made up until after the middle of September and for that reason the wage increase was recorded in the August statement.

Mr. Crowley admitted that the trustees had set aside a small amount in May, June and July to meet the anticipated wage increase, but the fact was not public.

Mr. Curtis asked why new car tickets could not be secured downtown and the old tickets redeemed without going to the outskirts of the city.

Manager Lees said that if any of the downtown stores would agree to redeem the old tickets, the company would be glad to have them as agencies. The company has never paid commissions to stores for this work, he said.

Would Change Tickets
Secretary Curtis said that there had been considerable discussion recently as to the dishonesty of conductors. He thought the ticket now in vogue should be replaced by a strip ticket.

Mr. Crowley said that under the method suggested by Mr. Curtis the company would not get the tickets because the conductor had previously had a strip of five tickets for 35 cents and it was found that the conductors were selling the tickets in loose form. It was possible to buy those tickets for three or four cents apiece.

In reply to a question from Mr. Wells, Manager Lees said that the only way that the company can tell if the conductor is punching a ticket or getting a cash fare for every passenger who rides on his car is by the observation of inspectors.

Mr. Wells said that he believed the only way to check up the number of passengers was to have strip tickets and have the conductor register every ticket and cash fare.

"We've thrown up our hands on the strip ticket," said Mr. Crowley.

"The coupon ticket has been a failure with us and on many other roads," said Mr. Lees.

Mr. Wells suggested not allowing the conductor to sell tickets but making people go to a store or to a starter for the tickets.

Mr. Lees said that it would be impossible to register tickets of unequal value on the same register.

It was voted to place on file the letter from Chairman Lorin.

Mr. Wells said that the sub-committee on fare reduction has been gathering information before making any recommendations and for that reason there was no report to make.

New Waiting Room
Manager Lees said that he had investigated the matter of hiring a store in Merrimack street under the chamber of commerce rooms to be used as a waiting room. The store will not be available until Feb. 1, he said. The rental price is more than the company could afford to pay, he thought.

Mr. Sullivan said that if the road increase in wages, although the wage increase did not actually come until September. The August statement was not made up until after the middle of September and for that reason the

P. P. Sullivan got, but he gave us a possibility of having a reduced fare during working hours. Manager Lees said that such a ticket had been put on sale, but has since been substituted by an unlimited ticket.

Mr. Crowley said that he didn't wish to be misunderstood on the question of honesty among employees. The great majority of them are honest, he said. The strip ticket proved a source of temptation to a few only.

"Don't you think the good will of the public is worth what you will have to pay for a waiting room?" asked Mr. Wells.

"Of course, we must have the good will of the people," replied Manager Lees. "but we can make changes and improvements only as we receive revenue from the public."

Mr. Crowley thought that the price asked for the store in the square was prohibitive and unfair. He thought if people should have a waiting room, if possible, but it would be unfair to ask the trustees to pay the price asked for the store in question. He thought perhaps another place could be secured. He said the financial burden of the road would be lightened after Jan. 1, after the back wages had been paid.

Mr. Molloy asked if there was any

ADMISSION OF GERMANY

League Faces Scrap at November Meeting on Enemy Nations

BY MILTON BRONNER, European Manager, N.E.A.
LONDON, Oct. 29.—Shall Germany and the other ex-enemy countries be admitted to the League of Nations? That is going to be the cause of the biggest fight at the initial meeting of the assembly of the League at Geneva in November.
Scandinavia says "Yes."
France says "No."
Great Britain will probably say "Yes."
And the fight is on to round up enough votes either to accept or reject, according as one looks at it.
Will Use United States
Singularly enough, the United States, which is not in the League and which will not be represented at the sessions of the assembly, will be used by French statesmen as the excuse for keeping Germany out of the League.

When the assembly meets, it is very probable Sweden, backed up by Norway and Denmark, will propose that Germany be made a member of the League. The view of the Scandinavian statesmen is no League can be called a real league as long as the former enemy countries are excluded from it.

French statesmen, I understand, are trying to line up a block of states in opposition to Germany.

Her Trump Card

As a result of this, France is springing her biggest card. It is this:

The United States has not made peace with Germany. She is still technically at war with Germany. Shall the powers admit to the League a state with which America is still at war? Especially shall they do so before America has definitely and finally taken her own stand as regards the League? And, finally, shall the powers take so-called "snap" action on the matter of Germany in November, when the new administration the American people elect in that month will have no power over American foreign policies until next March?

It is hard to predict whether the French will succeed. One thing is certain, they are up against a difficult proposition. It takes two-thirds vote in the assembly to admit a state to the League. That means that France will have to line up 13 states. It's going to be a hard task to get that number.

REPUBLICAN RALLY IN NO. CHELMSFORD

John Jacob Rogers asserted that industrial curtailment is due to the falling off of exports and increase in imports to and from European countries, in a speech at a republican rally in North Chelmsford town hall last night. He claimed that a protected tariff is urgently needed and that this can only be secured through the election of Harding and Coolidge. Other speakers were John L. Hasley of Boston, Senator Frank H. Purnam and Representative Henry Achin, Benjamin

Cole presided.

In his address Mr. Rogers said that the Democratic administration had fallen down as a consequence of its failure to select properly qualified men for office. He claimed that the Democratic policies had been inimical to the interests of New England, and had favored the southern states. He asserted that it had been proved that a republican administration is more effective in handling the affairs of the nation than a Democratic one.

"The League of Nations" was the subject of the address by John L. Hasley. He said that there is a great difference between the leagues advocated by the republicans and the Democrats. He gave considerable time to a discussion of the interpretation that might be placed on Article 10. In concluding, he told his audience that if it wished to secure its own safety, with true American ideals they should vote for the republican candidates.

Senator Putnam spoke briefly, and was followed by Representative Achin, who urged women voters to give the most serious consideration to the issues of the campaign. He told them that unless they voted the straight republican ticket they might live to regret their mistake.

LORD KENYON

BRITISHER CHALLENGES COUSIN TO DUEL

(N.E.A. Staff Special)
LONDON, Oct. 29.—The most amazing character in England today is Sir Claude Champion de Crespigny, a 73-year-old baronet, who has challenged his cousin, Lord Kenyon, 17 years his junior and a close friend of the king, to a duel "to vindicate his honor." The trouble started over a little dispute over some property and the subsequent sending of a white feather to Lord Kenyon by the dashing duelist.

Sir Claude does not belong to the twentieth century of taxis, movies, phones and fox trots. He is a reincarnation of the kind of men who raised the Crusades. He was born at least 500 years too late.

At first the challenge was taken by both Lord Kenyon and the public as a joke. But Sir Claude says he is in deadly earnest.

Sir Claude's life has been one narrative of hair-breadth escapes and adventures. He has crossed the North Sea in a balloon; swam the narrow gut of the first Nile cataract; fought to the death a charging rhinoceros, and figured in many fights with insolent waiters and cab drivers. Sir Claude was always "mustard with his milt."

Challenge "Absurd"

Lord Kenyon is England's tallest peer. He stands six feet seven, as against his cousin's five feet seven. He says the challenge is "too absurd." His cousin, he made known, challenged him before, some years ago, in Athens.

This "pistol for two" and "Hyde Park at dawn" stuff, Sir Claude has forgotten, went out of fashion long before crinolines did.

The last, very famous duel was in 1810, between the Duke of Cambridge and Captain Tuckett.

Four years later Queen Victoria was successful in having a law passed making dueling a punishable offense.

ANNUAL HALLOWEEN PARTY The second annual Halloween party and dance under the auspices of the United Leather Workers' international union was held last evening in Association hall with about 400 persons in attendance. In the early evening entertainment numbers were given by Alice, Bertha, Mary and Ella Dine, Edward Bonadus, Countess, James E. Donnelly, Martin H. Hagg, and William Hagg. The dancing was started and continued until a considerable number of couples had been secured. Those responsible for the success of the affair were as follows: Joseph A. Morgan, general manager; John J. Sullivan, assistant general manager; Frederick A. Sullivan, floor director; John J. Hagg, secretary; and John J. Hagg, treasurer.

HALLOWEEN PARTY About 200 attended the Halloween party and dance of the S. S. Kresge Co., held in the Girls' Community Service club dance hall in the Russell building last night. Employees of the store and their friends attended. It was the first time that the club hall was leased to any outside organization. The hall was decorated in black and yellow. Many of the dancers were in costume. Mayor and Mrs. Thompson were guests during the evening. The affair was given under the management of J. Raymond Cannon, manager of the Lowell store, and Misses Doris Dempsey and Josephine Welcome.

MILL CURTAILMENTAFFECTS RAILROADS

Curtailed business in the local mills has affected conditions in the local freight yards and depots. Local officials of the Boston and Maine reported this morning that many freight handlers and switchmen have been laid off because of the lack of work, but that these men would be restored to their positions just as soon as business conditions would warrant it. The number of men now employed at the freight depots in this city is far below normal.

The rush of farm products, especially apples and cider, from the north has not started as yet, and it was stated by an official this morning that tardiness in regard to apples was laid to the high cost of apples. Freight slackness in this city not only extends to the mills, but includes other industries and shippers not generally affected by cut-downs in working forces.

ALL SAINTS DAY

Monday, Nov. 1, will be All Saints' day, and will be observed in the Catholic churches as a holy day of obligation. Tuesday will be All Souls' day, set apart for prayers for the repose of the souls of departed ones.

ATHLETIC COMPETITION
The Y.M.C.A.'s of Massachusetts and Rhode Island are planning regional and sectional athletic competition in athletics, basketball and wrestling. The state will be divided into sections to include the associations about Providence, Greater Boston and the Merrimack valley. The local association will leave the matter of joining the organization in the hands of Physical Director Parker. Men are needed for the short dashes, and relay races, high jump, broad jump and shot put. All those interested should get in touch with Mr. Parker as this will provide excellent opportunity for interstate athletics in the future.

In Payta, Peru, the interval between showers is about seven days.

coed when they set this great government up."

The letter follows:

25th of October, 1920.

My Dear Governor Cox:

"As the campaign approaches its climax, I want to give myself the pleasure of writing to say with what admiration I have followed your course throughout the campaign. You have spoken truly and fearlessly about the great issues at stake, and I believe that you will receive the emphatic endorsement of the voters of the country. As one of those voters, and as one of your fellow citizens, I want to express my entire confidence in you and my confident hope that under your leadership we may carry the policy of the national government forward along the path of liberal legislation and humane reform, until the whole world again sees an illustration of the whole strength of democracy and the happy fruit of what the founders of the republic purposed when they set this great government up."

"Allow me to sign myself,

"Your grateful and loyal supporter,

"WOODROW WILSON."

INDIANS TO PRACTICE FOR SUNDAY GAME

There will be a practice session for the Indian first team at the corner of Lundberg and Gorham streets at 7:45 o'clock tonight. The manager has completed arrangements to play the Camp Devens football team on the Old Fair grounds on Sunday afternoon. The Indian eleven is composed of many former college and high school stars and is said to be very fast. The local eleven, which expects to make this season one of the most successful on record, will use its strongest line-up and back confidence of winning. The following men are requested to report tonight: Lynch, McIntyre, Smith, Williams, Turner, Loucraft, Liston, Donnellan, Morse, Young, Matthews, Nolan, Spencer, White, Locke, Gleason and Coughlin.

BARROW QUILTS SOX
GOES TO YANKEES

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Col. Jacob Ruppert, part owner of the New York American league club, yesterday announced Edward C. Barrow, who resigned as manager of the Boston Americans two days ago, had signed as business manager of the Yankees.

Miller Huggula will sign a contract to manage the New York team another year upon his arrival here today, Col. Ruppert added. Barrow had been with the Red Sox three years and previously was president of the International league for seven years.

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—The announcement that Edward C. Barrow had resigned as manager of the Red Sox to become business manager of the New York Americans came as a surprise to the supporters of the team. Speculation as to his successor ran a wide field. President H. H. Frazee, over the telephone from New York, said he had two or three men in mind.

The club will continue on its rolls "Bill" Carrigan, manager of the world champions of 1915 and 1916, now a banker and promoter of Lewiston, Me., whom Frazee had previously endeavored to bring back to the game. Jack Barry, who succeeded Carrigan as manager of the Red Sox, relinquishing the position to join the navy, is in the garage business at Worcester and is considered available. Harry Hooper, crack outfielder and captain of the present Red Sox team, has had the confidence of the club owner, and is believed to be among those under consideration.

"Not a chance for me to get back into baseball," said Carrigan last night when informed by telephone at his Lewiston home of Barrow's resignation. "With baseball mixed up the way it is now, I have promised myself that I will never return to the game, and I am through with big league baseball."

POLO NOTES

Providence here tonight.

Sexy Lyons, the Providence halfback, who will play here tonight against Lowell, is one of the best defensive men in the game. He's a big fellow, and is absolutely fearless. He's a southpaw, and this fact has a tendency of upsetting many of the opposing rushers. While never backing away from an opponent, he is one of the cleanest playing halfbacks in the league.

Lanky Harry Thompson, second rush of the Gold Bugs, is another high class player. He's a fast skater and a fine kicker.

Mossie Conley, goal tender for Providence, is one of the leaders, and when in form is very stingy.

Bob Hart is out to win tonight's game, and place Lowell back in the running. The team has been experiencing rather hard luck the last few weeks, but Bob is out to regain some of the lost ground.

McGILW INDICTED

Manager of New York Glens Charged With Violation of the Volstead Act
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—John J. McGilw, manager of the New York Glens, yesterday was indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of violating the Volstead act.

The indictment was presented on evidence presented by Federal Assistant District Attorney Edward H. Reynolds, who investigated the fracas at the Lambs club last August between McGilw and John C. Slavin, a musical comedy actor. The indictment charges that on that date McGilw had illegal possession of a bottle of whiskey.

The maximum penalty for such an offense is a $500 fine.

The grand jury action, it was learned from statements attributed to McGilw in press reports during investigation of the Lambs club fracas, in which he was quoted as saying he bought two bottles of whiskey at the club shortly before the trouble.

ROUSING FOOTBALL
GAMES TOMORROW

Lowell football fans will have another excellent program on tap tomorrow afternoon when Lowell Textile and Lowell high school eleven will line up against some of their strongest opponents of the season.

Out at Spaulding park Jim Conway's high school squad will meet Fitchburg high at 3 o'clock and followers of the team expect a repetition of last Saturday's victory over Concord high.

The men have been practicing hard all week and are in the pink of condition to meet the strong lineup which Fitchburg has ready to send down here.

Up on the Moody street campus the Textile school eleven will clash with the Harvard second team. Coach Hudson and Mackay consider tomorrow's scrimmage one of the hardest games of the season. Several new formations will be worked against the veterans of the criterion and special attention has been given to methods of meeting Harvard's attack.

Harvard is expected to bring the strongest men of the criterion squad and there is little doubt but what the Textile line will be outwitted several pounds to the man. Several of the linemen have been on the sick list since last Saturday's scorching game with M.I.T., but it is expected that they will be able to play tomorrow.

CHANGES IN BOXING

Announcements "Both Boys Are Members of This Club" Heard No More in Massachusetts Ring

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Boxing is no more a new basis in Massachusetts. For the first time in a quarter century professional matches are open to public participation under legal sanction, and it is no longer necessary for a man who wishes to see a bout to first join a club over the meetings of which referees have been the moderators and boxers the only members with the idea of introducing fighters that "both are members of this club" is heard no more.

The new order of things is the result of a law establishing a state boxing commission, and stipulating some of the conditions under which the sport must be conducted. These provide for a sound basis for the conduct of the matches each, to be conducted by clubs licensed by the commission under bonds of $500. Decisions are given by a referee and two judges, licensed by the commission.

The members of the board, four days after their appointment, laid down the supplementary regulations under which each fighter is required to write and sign his decision and the referee decides if they disagree. Under the commission rules the club can be no draw.

Every person connected with a bout must be licensed—physician, referee, judge, timekeeper, boxer, manager, trainer or second. The physician is required to examine the contestants three hours before the bout and to certify in writing that each boxer is physically fit. Licenses bear a photograph of the boxer, with the idea of preventing impersonations.

Referees and judges are assigned by the commission to authorize bouts and their identity to promoters. Boxers or spectators are not known until they take their place at the ringside. This is a further check against fraudulent collusion. Under the new law the commission has authority similar to that of city councils to regulate the testimony of witnesses on all matters within their jurisdiction.

Women who have seen bouts in this city previously only in male disguise are now allowed equal privileges with male followers of the sport, and at the first of the bouts under the new law the area gambling has been prohibited and grounds ordered to assist from objectionable tactics in support of their training.

BOARDERS AND LOOPERS
JOIN STRIKERS

Most of the boarders employed at the Lawrence hosiery and practically all the loopers employed in the same mill have joined the ranks of the strikers who went out on strike Monday morning after refusing to accept a reduction in wages. This announcement was made last evening at a meeting of the male employees, which was held in Loomis' hall in City Hall avenue.

The meeting was presided over by John Hanley, a member of the executive board of the United Textile Workers of America.

The women employees of the plant gathered in Trades and Labor hall last evening, the meeting being presided over by Walter Roche, president of the Lowell Textile Council. There were about 300 women present.

It was also stated that the workers pressed their case to a reduction in wages. It was announced that a meeting for the women strikers will be held this afternoon in Trades and Labor hall, the speaker to be General Organizer Thomas J. Hogan of the United Textile Workers of America.

A meeting for the men will be held in Loomis' hall Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

It was announced this morning that

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents
B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

All for fun is the extravaganza put on by Farrell Taylor & Co. at the B. F. Keith theatre this week. True Taylor and Tom Carter give some of the most amusing of blackface comedy, but little Corlena Diamond is a splendid harpist, and Edith Swan plays the trombone well. There is a ceaseless run of fun and music throughout the piece, which is called "The African Duke." Clara Howard, called the "musical comedy girl," is another excellent character, whose method is somewhat different from that of any of her predecessors. The skating and dancing novelty of Anderson and Vee is exceedingly well done, while the comedy "Detailed by Hailley & White" is bright throughout. For instrumental music that appeals to young & wheeler stand out prominently. Other good acts are Bowser, Winters & Crocker, the three rubes, and Tom and Mae Waddell.

FORT HILL PARK

Chairman Weed Explains Position of Park Board

In connection with the discussion concerning the placing of tennis courts at Fort Hill park, Clarence M. Weed, chairman of the park commission, gave out yesterday the following statement:

The board of park commissioners has been very much gratified by the interest shown by the public in the preservation of Fort Hill park. It realizes that the apathy which has compelled an unpaid board for so many years to accept the financial crumbs that fell from the municipal table and to spread a pittance over the 150 acres of park area was more apparent than real. They hope that the present agitation is the beginning of a new era in the park and recreation system of Lowell.

The members, however, would like to call attention to the fact that only a few short weeks ago they urged upon the city council the necessity of purchasing a small tract of land adjacent to Fort Hill which was offered by the government for less than six thousand dollars and they regret keenly that this project failed because none of the public spirited citizens who are now so agitated raised a hand in its favor.

Thus was lost the opportunity to furnish to that part of the city a playground which would have taken care of the needs of the immediate community and would have obviated any necessity of using any part of Fort Hill for such purposes.

Regarding the suggestion that recreation activities be concentrated at Shedd park the board wishes to say that the attempt has been made for several years to induce boys to go over there to play baseball, and that it has signally failed. Anyone who will walk from High street over to Shedd park will realize that the distance is more than a few steps, and that Shedd park can never take the place of a playground for the children and young people of the city living on the Merrimack square side of High street. The truth of this is shown by the fact that the boys of the neighborhood have been using the Fort Hill grass plot for a ball ground almost constantly during the past few years.

Lowell's greatest need is adequate provision for the leisure hours of her children and youth. Compared with this the preservation of all the grass blades of Fort Hill is of insignificant importance. Social conditions, new laws, shortening of the hours of labor, are all tending to give more leisure to our young people and if the city is to be saved for the future some attention must be paid to it. The pity of the situation now is that no one seems to realize the truth except those who are exploiting our youth for personal gain. Were there such a realization the community certainly would not allow such a splendid organization as the Boy Scout council to disband because the paltry sum of three thousand dollars can not be dug out of the pockets of sixty thousand citizens.

The park commissioners are very glad to grant the hearing requested and they hope that all the people in Lowell who are interested in the welfare of the youth of our city will attend, in order that the problems involved may be seen in their larger aspects and that some constructive policy may be worked out which will not only preserve the beauty of Fort Hill but which also will make for the betterment of our future citizens.

Recipes of Our Pioneer Mothers for the home treatment of diseases were wonderfully dependable. True, they knew nothing of drugs, but owed their success to the roots, herbs and bark of the field. It is interesting to note that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most successful remedy for female ills we have, was originally prepared for home use from one of these recipes. Its fame has now spread from shore to shore, and thousands of American women now well and strong claim they owe their health and happiness to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Adv.

At the same hour, the relatives of MacSwiney, who refused to board the special steamer provided to take them and the lord mayor's body to Cork were on their way to Dublin, almost directly across the narrow strait which divides Abbot from Erin. The relatives left Holy Head at 2.30 o'clock, a little more than an hour after the Rathmore.

rect to Cork was preceded by a violent scene in which blows were struck and members of his family were dragged from their railway coach at the Holy Head station. They refused to consent to the government's plan to take the body to Cork instead of Dublin, and it was only after they had been placed under virtual temporary arrest, that the body was taken from the train and hauled to the dock where the Rathmore was waiting.

Sir Hamar's letter was handed to John MacSwiney, brother of the lord mayor, who remarked that the lady mayors was not on board the train. "Black and Tan" on Guard
When the train arrived here, near midnight, a cordon of police was formed around the platform entrances, keeping back a good sized crowd of curious persons who hooped and jeered. Seventy six "Black and Tan" formed on the platform and stood at present arms as the mourners passed. Mr. O'Brien, London executive of the Irish Self-Determination League, who represented the family on the funeral train, demanded that the station master fulfill the contract to carry the body to Cork by the way of Kingsdown, a port near Dublin. A conference in the station master's office followed, and the station master was arranging for the transfer of the body and mourners by way of Kingsdown when an official entered and said the superintendent wanted to speak with him.

When the station master returned, he said: "My orders are that the body must be placed on board the Rathmore for shipment to Cork, and they will be obeyed." He intimated force would be used, if necessary. Called "Body Snatchers"
Deputy Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork, shaking his finger in the station master's face, said: "You and your government are body snatchers. You are going to seize a dead body, and we refused to accompany you and your nefarious expedition."

The station master went to the baggage car, where the mourners were grouped around the flower-decked box containing the coffin, and ordered the box removed to the steamer. When they heard his order, Annie and Mary MacSwiney, sisters of the dead hunger striker, cried defiantly: "You have murdered our brother and you are not going to arrest his body!"

Drugged from Train
The mourners refused to allow the porters to touch the casket, and a police officer ordered the mourners to leave the car. They declined, and constables, who had been called, forcibly dragged some of the male mourners out. The men struck at the police, who drew their truncheons while the women in the party shrieked "Body snatchers! Snatchers!" They fought the police who were electing them. The Misses MacSwiney claimed that during the melee the police knocked them down. The mourners were then herded to one side, the box was placed on a truck and closely guarded by police. It was wheeled to the steamer. Members of the funeral party waited until the Rathmore had left her dock and then went to the pier from which depart steamers bound for Kingsdown.

Brother Seized by Throat
DUBLIN, Oct. 29.—Father Dominic, private chaplain to the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, in a statement today, concerning the funeral of the lord mayor, said: "The police and soldiers removed the body of Mayor MacSwiney from the funeral car and transferred it to the steam packet Baltimore."

"Police and military entered the mortuary van and forcibly ejected the relatives. Sean MacSwiney (John, brother of the lord mayor) was seized by the throat and put out. Mary MacSwiney was pushed out and fell. All the party were given rough treatment."

Widow Not On Train
"Madame: I am advised that the landing and funeral of the lord mayor in Dublin may lead to a demonstration of a political nature. I regret, therefore, the Irish government cannot allow the disembarkation of his remains at any other port in Ireland except his native city of Cork. In order to save you every inconvenience, the government has directed the London & Northeastern Railway Co. to

When the train arrived here, near midnight, a cordon of police was formed around the platform entrances, keeping back a good sized crowd of curious persons who hooped and jeered. Seventy six "Black and Tan" formed on the platform and stood at present arms as the mourners passed. Mr. O'Brien, London executive of the Irish Self-Determination League, who represented the family on the funeral train, demanded that the station master fulfill the contract to carry the body to Cork by the way of Kingsdown, a port near Dublin. A conference in the station master's office followed, and the station master was arranging for the transfer of the body and mourners by way of Kingsdown when an official entered and said the superintendent wanted to speak with him.

When the station master returned, he said: "My orders are that the body must be placed on board the Rathmore for shipment to Cork, and they will be obeyed." He intimated force would be used, if necessary.

Called "Body Snatchers"
Deputy Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork, shaking his finger in the station master's face, said: "You and your government are body snatchers. You are going to seize a dead body, and we refused to accompany you and your nefarious expedition."

The station master went to the baggage car, where the mourners were grouped around the flower-decked box containing the coffin, and ordered the box removed to the steamer. When they heard his order, Annie and Mary MacSwiney, sisters of the dead hunger striker, cried defiantly: "You have murdered our brother and you are not going to arrest his body!"

Drugged from Train
The mourners refused to allow the porters to touch the casket, and a police officer ordered the mourners to leave the car. They declined, and constables, who had been called, forcibly dragged some of the male mourners out. The men struck at the police, who drew their truncheons while the women in the party shrieked "Body snatchers! Snatchers!" They fought the police who were electing them. The Misses MacSwiney claimed that during the melee the police knocked them down. The mourners were then herded to one side, the box was placed on a truck and closely guarded by police. It was wheeled to the steamer. Members of the funeral party waited until the Rathmore had left her dock and then went to the pier from which depart steamers bound for Kingsdown.

Brother Seized by Throat
DUBLIN, Oct. 29.—Father Dominic, private chaplain to the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, in a statement today, concerning the funeral of the lord mayor, said: "The police and soldiers removed the body of Mayor MacSwiney from the funeral car and transferred it to the steam packet Baltimore."

"Police and military entered the mortuary van and forcibly ejected the relatives. Sean MacSwiney (John, brother of the lord mayor) was seized by the throat and put out. Mary MacSwiney was pushed out and fell. All the party were given rough treatment."

"Madame: I am advised that the landing and funeral of the lord mayor in Dublin may lead to a demonstration of a political nature. I regret, therefore, the Irish government cannot allow the disembarkation of his remains at any other port in Ireland except his native city of Cork. In order to save you every inconvenience, the government has directed the London & Northeastern Railway Co. to provide a suitable steamer to carry the remains direct to Cork from Holy Head. This steamer will also carry you and 20 of your friends, if you so desire."

Sir Hamar's letter was handed to John MacSwiney, brother of the lord mayor, who remarked that the lady mayors was not on board the train.

G. O. P. PLEA FOR FUNDS

Corporations Asked to Determine How Much Harding Victory Was Worth

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, today replied to a denial in Chicago last night by Charles B. Warren of Detroit, chairman of the republican national organization that he had signed a letter alleged by Mr. White to have been sent corporations asking contributions for the Harding campaign fund.

In a formal statement, Mr. White said: "It should not be difficult for Col. Warren of Michigan to discover who sent out, on ways and means stationery, with his name signed in print and in ink, the letter urging corporation directors to determine how much it is worth to their corporate interest to elect Senator Harding and then to send it in."

"Each letter contained an enclosure a remittance card," Col. Warren can have the Detroit office of the republican money diggers report how many such cards came in with checks attached, and from that point he can begin to trace who, if anyone, has imposed on him."

ASK LOWELL WOMEN TO VOTE EARLY

The local board of election commissioners, through its chairman, Hugh C. McOsker, today called upon all Lowell women who are registered as voters to cast their ballots next Tuesday between 10 o'clock in the forenoon and 4 in the afternoon, if possible, so that congestion in the early morning and evening may be avoided.

It is feared that many women will accompany their husbands to the polls before 9 o'clock in the morning because of a natural diffidence to go to the polls alone. If this custom is indulged in to any great extent it will mean congestion at the polls in the early morning and rather than wait many men who can vote at no other time may give up the idea of voting at all.

The hours between 6 and 9 o'clock in the morning should be reserved for those who work, the election commission say. Of course, women who work will be entitled to vote at that time, if they find it necessary to do so, but housekeepers and others who are not occupied during the late forenoon and early afternoon are asked to vote during the quiet period so that the burden on the precinct officers may be distributed as evenly as possible.

LOWELL TEACHERS AT BOSTON MEETING

Lowell was well represented at the 66th annual meeting of the Middlesex County Teachers' association held today at Tremont Temple and the state house hearing room, Boston. All the public schools of the city were closed to allow the teachers to attend the meeting and practically the entire teaching corps of the city took advantage of the opportunity.

The Lowell teachers had an especial interest in the meeting as one of their number, Henry H. Harris, headmaster of the Lowell high school, is president of the association and presided at the sessions of the elementary school section in Converse hall.

Among the speakers at the afternoon session of this section were Congressman John Jacob Rogers whose subject was "The Federal Interest in Education," and Albert Edmund Brown, formerly director of the department of music of the Lowell State Normal school, who spoke on "The Case for Music as a Vital Force." The ushers of the meeting were the officers of the girls' battalion of the Lowell high school.

Chairman White Says Signs Point Unmistakably to Democratic Success

Hays Predicts "Largest Popular Majority Ever Cast" for Harding

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, today issued the following election forecast:

"The general political situation at the close of the last week of the campaign of 1920 is full of signs which point unmistakably to democratic success."

"Gov. Cox and Mr. Roosevelt will carry the border states of Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri and Oklahoma, in addition to the southern states. They will carry Ohio and Indiana. On the Atlantic seaboard in New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island due to an 11th hour shift the situation is improving every minute and we feel certain that we will carry."

MAINTENANCE OF ISOLATION HOSPITAL

The proposition of turning the maintenance of the new isolation hospital in Varnum avenue, which was opened formally last Monday, over to a board of trustees will be discussed at an executive meeting of the Lowell charter commission Friday evening, Nov. 6.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson today received a request from the charter commission to be present at that time and similar invitations have been sent to members of the board of health and to representatives of the North Middlesex Medical society.

At the present time the hospital is conducted under the direct supervision of the mayor as the head of the health department and a superintendent, Dr. Forster H. Smith, supervises the actual maintenance of the building. In its rechartering of the city's charter, the charter commission evidently has considered a charter which would not give the mayor direct control over the health department and wishes to ascertain if the new hospital could feasibly be conducted by a board of trustees.

Wilson Writes Cox Expressing Confidence and Belief That He Will Receive Emphatic Endorsement

COX TO REPLY TO HARDING

Will Answer Declaration That He is "Unpledged" and "Unbossed"

War Veteran Sends Money to Be Used in Distributing Copies of Covenant

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 29.—Gov. Cox brought his campaign back to his home state today beginning with a speech here. Later he was to speak at Kent, Ohio, and at Akron, tonight.

At Akron he plans to reply to Senator Harding's speech of Thursday night in the same city. In that speech Senator Harding declared that he was not the candidate of any clique or combination, but was absolutely "unpledged" and "unbossed."

The governor's reply said: "It is a sad commentary of human nature that the boys who offered their lives to end the war for all time, must still carry on the fight to see that our pledge is kept."

"Those who have an opportunity to read the covenant will understand it, and when they understand it, they will help vote for it."

LAND FOR FIREHOUSE IN THE HIGHLANDS

Commissioner John F. Salmon will introduce a vote at a special meeting of the municipal council tomorrow morning to serve notice on Albert B. Cameron that the city intends to take the parcel of land owned by him at the junction of Stevens and Pine streets, to be used for firehouse purposes.

If the vote is passed by the council, another vote authorizing Commissioner George E. Marchand of the public property department and Commissioner Salmon to call for bids for the drawing of plans and specifications for the construction of a new firehouse in the Highlands will be introduced. If both votes are passed the first formal steps in the erection of a new house to take the place of the Westford street house which was sold at auction last August will have been taken.

The firehouse situation in the Highlands has kept the residents of that section in a more or less wondering and controversial attitude since last August, when the Westford street house was sold at public auction at the direction of the municipal council. There has been more or less discussion as to what site should be chosen and under what commissioner the new house should be built. The site which Commissioner Salmon has chosen has been approved by the national board of underwriters and the chamber of commerce. It contains 9355 square feet of land and can be purchased for slightly more than $3000 from Mr. Cameron, its present owner.

If the council decides to approve the site at tomorrow's meeting, a date will be set for a hearing on the matter before the land is actually taken.

ADMIRE COX'S COURSE

Has Spoken Truly and Fearlessly About the Great Issues at Stake

Asks to Be Permitted to Sign Himself "Your Grati-fied and Loyal Supporter"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Wilson today wrote Gov. Cox expressing confidence in him.

The president said he had followed Gov. Cox's course throughout the campaign with "admiration," and expressed the belief that the governor would receive the "emphatic endorsement" of the voters of the country.

"You have spoken truly and fearlessly about the great issues at stake," the president said, and in concluding his letter he asked that he be permitted to sign himself "Your gratified and loyal supporter."

The president expressed the hope that under Gov. Cox's leadership "we carry the policy of the national government forward along the path of liberal legislation and humane reform until the whole world again sees an illustration of the wholesome strength of democracy and the happy fruit of what the founders of the republic pur-

BIG CROWDS CHEER COX

Tells People What "Change"

Means—Says G. O. P. Admit No One Wants Harding

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 29.—Arguments addressed especially to voters favoring Senator Harding upon the broad, general ground of desiring "a change" in national affairs, were emphasized here last night by Gov. Cox.

To a large audience and in a formal statement, Gov. Cox fired a broadside of questions to the American people, attacking Senator Harding and other republican leaders for their League of Nations, legislative and political records.

"Republicans, when they are honest," Gov. Cox declared, "have acknowledged what is patent to everyone—that no one really wants Senator Harding for president. And yet they tell me that, as partisans, many expected to vote for him, because they have been taught to believe that they 'wanted a change'.

The expression was preached as propaganda by reactionary leaders until it has become nauseating to the public."

Gov. Cox asked whether the voters desire a change back to normalcy relative to legislation, to "tax revision by big business," to "success of reactionary politicians," to "control of government by men led by Lodge and Penrose," and to other conditions.

Great Italy of Roosevelt
Gov. Cox's visit here was the occasion for a great rally of Roosevelt democracy. A parade, with fireworks, torchlight and bands, was staged and the governor spoke to an overflow meeting outside of the hall. Hundreds of persons, including many clubs, marched in the parade.

With his fire against the argument for "a change" in government, Gov. Cox also preached the League of Nations and predicted victory next Tuesday.

"My opponents make their fight on the league issue and upon me. They have failed in their attempt to divert the issues. They have been compelled to recognize that Cox is the candidate and no longer can they continue their assault upon President Wilson, whom they have pitilessly belabored for months, even though they knew he was sick and unable to defend himself—as much a victim of the war as any disabled soldier in the hospital."

Do the People Want a Change?
In his assault upon sentiment for "a change," Gov. Cox put these questions to voters:
"Do they want a change that will mean tax revision from a big business point of view?

"Do they desire a change back to normalcy relative to legislation? Will Johnson, Harlan, Norris and the other progressives in and out of congress deny they are hoping to prevent Penrose from writing the next tariff bill?

"Do they want a change that will mean success to the program of reactionary politicians desirous of abolishing all direct primaries?
"Do the farmers want a change to the type of political control that brought about the agrarian revolt in North Dakota?
"Do the workmen of America want a change to an administration headed by Senator Harding, who voted for the anti-strike sections of the Cummins bill?
"Do the women of America want a change that would mean control of government by men led by Lodge and Penrose, who opposed woman suffrage and every other moral issue and who are just as wrong on all social service problems now as they are on the League of Nations?
"Do the small business men of the nation want a change in the federal reserve banking system that would enable a small group of bankers to regain control of the money power of the country?
"Do the men and women of Irish descent want a change that will mean, according to Senator Harding, that the question of Irish independence shall not be one for the intercession of official America?
"Do the men and women of German descent, said to be led by George Sylvester Viereck, because of some promise of a separate peace under more favorable terms to Germany, want a change from the conditions at Paris where, as everyone knows, Germany would have been cut to pieces like a beefsteak had it not been for the United States?
"Do the former service men want a change that would be nothing more than the repetition of the farce staged by congress when it played horse for over a year with the adjusted compensation question and came to no definite conclusion?
"Do the people who regard the supreme court as the greatest bulwark of justice want a change to majority con-rol by reactionary justices selected by a reactionary president?

"Do the people want a change back to the old conditions that caused Roosevelt to revolt in 1912? Have they forgotten that the men now in control of the republican party are the same that Roosevelt fought and the people turned out or office?"

Praises Mrs. Fitzgerald

Fitzgerald, chairman of the women's division of the Massachusetts democratic party, praising her for her co-operation and asking for her continued assistance and watchfulness at the polls. The telegram was received yesterday and was sent from Dayton, Ohio. In the telegram Gov. Cox said that the ground swell for the League of Nations is now evident throughout the country.

You can bake your bread, biscuits and pies, roast meats and cook vegetables in the Domestic Science. By heating the soapstone for fifteen or twenty minutes you can do cooking that would take hours of fuel burning in your range.

Gives You More Time Away From Home

You can put the unheated foods in the Domestic Science and go out for hours, returning to find dinner perfectly cooked and piping hot, ready to serve. You will find that everything cooked in it has an added deliciousness, the toothsome-ness of cooked-in flavors the tender delicacy of thoroughly cooked foods.

BLIND MAN'S BUFF

The next game the picnicers from Meadow Grove school played was "blind man's buff."

Muff Mole was "it," so Nancy tied Mr. Scribble Scratch's handkerchief over his eyes, not Scribble Scratch's, for although folks think Muff's eyes don't amount to much because they are so deep down under his won't be known. But the Meadow Grove people didn't have any too many clothes to exchange, besides their things didn't fit each other very well. Well, Muff let Nancy tie the handkerchief over his eyes, and started off. But although he went slowly, his brain was working busily. You'll see why.

Poor Muff! They poked him and fur, they are really sharp and can see a lot of things.

Muff didn't want to be "it" at all and tried the best he could to get out of it. He dug down into the ground like a flash when he heard his name mentioned, but his daddy, Mike Mole, went after him and hauled him out, because he knew what a smart boy Muff was and he wanted him to prove it.

Now, people who are playing blind man's buff don't like to be caught; they just hate to be guessed. You know how boys change caps and girls change aprons and so on, just so they

they knocked him, and pulled his little nothing of a tail and said, "Can't catch me, can't catch me," and were just perfectly horrid. Finally Muff made a grab, and caught Snoopy Skunk right around the leg. "Petey Porcupine!" sang out Muff loudly. "I've caught Petey Porcupine!" "Wrong!" cried everybody. "Let him go, Muff. You're still 'it'!" Mike Mole, his daddy, was terribly mortified. "Goodness," thought he, "how could Muff make that mistake. 'I know it was Snoopy away over here.'"

MILLERAND RESEMBLES LATE COL. ROOSEVELT

PARIS, Oct. 29.—President Millerand greatly resembles physically the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt. He has the same broad chest, short, thick-set stature, the twinkling blue eyes look searchingly at one through thick lenses; the same large head, strong, powerful neck; the same capacity for hard work.

At Versailles, after Millerand had been officially invested with the powers of president of the French republic, the correspondent of the Associated Press was one of a large group of newspaper men with whom the president shook hands. "How do you feel, Mr. President?" the correspondent asked. "Splendid," Millerand fairly shouted. "Soundly," the word sounded very much like one heard years ago, "Bully."

SUCH IS LIFE

Squire Harpington Gets It Going and Coming

That morning Squire Abner Harpington had escorted the cat down to the creek and advised kitty along the lines of Mr. Pat Henry's famous admonition to sink or swim, hoping the cat hadn't taken swimming lessons.

That very evening Mrs. Harpington again reminded her lord and master that it was up to him to dig the cat out from under the sofa and pen kitty in the basement for the night. "One whiz!" exclaimed the squire, "is that cat here again?"

Mrs. Harpington. It may be explained, had had no hand in the morning's attempted feline massacre. Mrs. Harpington liked the cat. But on the other hand, it wasn't Mrs. Harpington who had to hunt the cat up every evening and lead it to the out-sidet.

"Of course the cat's hiding again, some place," Mrs. Harpington calmly replied, intent upon the latest election news.

"That cat sure has nine lives," muttered the squire pouring a dose of liniment over a badly scratched hand, wounded in the gallant charge under the sofa to "get that blamed cat."

"Why, Abner," mildly chirped Mrs. Harpington. "I wish you'd stop exaggerating so! It is foolish to continued talking about a cat, or anything, having nine lives."

"Is that so?" queried the squire. "Well, I can prove to you that a cat, any cat, has nine lives."

"Really?" smiled Mrs. Harpington. "One cat," explained the squire, "has one life, hasn't it?" asked the squire.

"Certainly," returned Mrs. Harpington. "That is not nice, though."

"And you must admit," continued the squire, "that no cat has eight lives."

"I agree with you on that proposition," said Mrs. Harpington.

"Well, then," continued the squire, "one cat has one life and eight lives are nine lives, aren't they?"

"That," insisted Mrs. Harpington, "persuades me to the belief that you, being so very smart, know what a biped is."

"Of course I know what a biped is."

"That's right," returned Mrs. Harpington. "A biped is a creature with two legs."

"Which," said Mrs. Harpington, "proves that you are a goose."

"Is that so?" inquired the squire.

The squire answered. "A biped is a creature with two legs."

"Which," said Mrs. Harpington, "proves that you are a goose."

"Is that so?" inquired the squire.

"That's right," returned Mrs. Harpington. "A biped is a creature with two legs."

"Is that so?" inquired the squire.

"That's right," returned Mrs. Harpington. "A biped is a creature with two legs."

"Yes," continued Mrs. Harpington, very pleasantly. "A biped is a creature with two legs; a goose has two, and you have two, therefore you are a goose. Am I right?"

"As nearly right as you usually are," the squire muttered as he beat it for the hay.

"WAR WITH LOAFERS"

Advises From Moscow Tell of Appeal Issued by Soviet Government for Overtime Work

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Advises from Moscow say that an appeal has been issued by the soviet government for overtime work, under the heading of "The war with loafers," in which the soviet government declares it cannot tolerate anyone living in the soviet republic at the expense of others. Loafers must be pursued mercilessly.

In one village which refused to fulfill the compulsory labor order, 75 cows have been confiscated and will not be returned until the set task is completed.

CONDITIONS IN RUMANIA

Agrarian Reform Act Has Brought Contentment and Satisfaction

JASSY, Rumania, Oct. 29.—Rumania's agrarian reform act giving 6,000,000 acres of state, institutional and private lands to the peasants, has brought about a degree of contentment and satisfaction among the population heretofore unknown. For the first time in Rumania's history the peasants have been given outright ownership of land. King Ferdinand was first to give up a part of his large land holdings to the people.

The expropriation of large private estates by the government did not please the proprietor classes, but it has had a stabilizing influence upon the temper and spirit of the people, who now have little sympathy for belated socialist doctrines. Nearly 85 per cent of the people of Rumania are supported by agriculture and under their ownership the land during the last year has yielded larger and better crops than ever before.

Five-sixths of the population of Rumania consists of the peasantry, who combine thrift with industry. In fact, the peasant class constitutes the real Rumania. The whole hope of the country is bound up in it. A large percentage of illiteracy prevails, but the people possess many good qualities. One sees the same hard-worked contentment that obtained in the middle ages, the same goodness of heart and simplicity of manner which always characterize highly stratified societies where people know their stations in life and act accordingly.

The bulk of the Rumanian nation still lives in dirt-floored huts made of mud. These hovels usually are windowless and stoveless. The people sleep upon the floor or upon benches with their day clothes on, often six to ten of them in one miserable low-ceiled room ten feet square. In many cases the poultry, pigs and cattle occupy the same room.

While Rumanian cities have made decided progress during the last 25 years, the country—the real heart of Rumania—has been practically stationary. The ox-drawn wooden plough, the hand scythe, and the wheat sown in biblical times are still to be seen.

Although producing enough wheat to supply all Europe with bread, the Rumanian peasant does not touch white bread. His diet consists almost entirely of a sort of cornmeal mush (mamaliga) larded so stiff that when it cools it resembles corn bread of the southern states. This meagre food, insufficiently supplemented with fat, is accountable for the large amount of pellagra in Rumania—perhaps equalled nowhere in the world.

PLANS FOR Y. M. C. A. "WEEK DAY" FAIR

At a recent meeting of the chairman of the various committees of the Y. M. C. A. "Week Day" fair, very favorable reports of progress were made. There is every indication that this will be the most novel and successful fair held in Lowell for some time. There will be offered for sale a great variety of articles, donated by those interested, which the housewife will find particularly useful on the day indicated by the booth at which they are to be sold. On Monday's booth one will find everything necessary for laundering purposes and on Tuesday's booth there will be a large variety of kitchen aprons, towels, and so on. On other days of the week the duties of the housewife will be represented by the articles in the booths. A delightful program has been arranged for each evening of the affair and on Thursday afternoon, November 11, when children will be admitted free, there will be a special entertainment by a magician, character reader, and two little dancers. The fair will be run November 10, 11 and 12.

Halloween Party
Tonight in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium there will be a Halloween party under the auspices of the members of the senior class. All members of the "Y" are invited and expected to bring a lady friend. There will be all kinds of games and music.

BODIES OF SOLDIERS

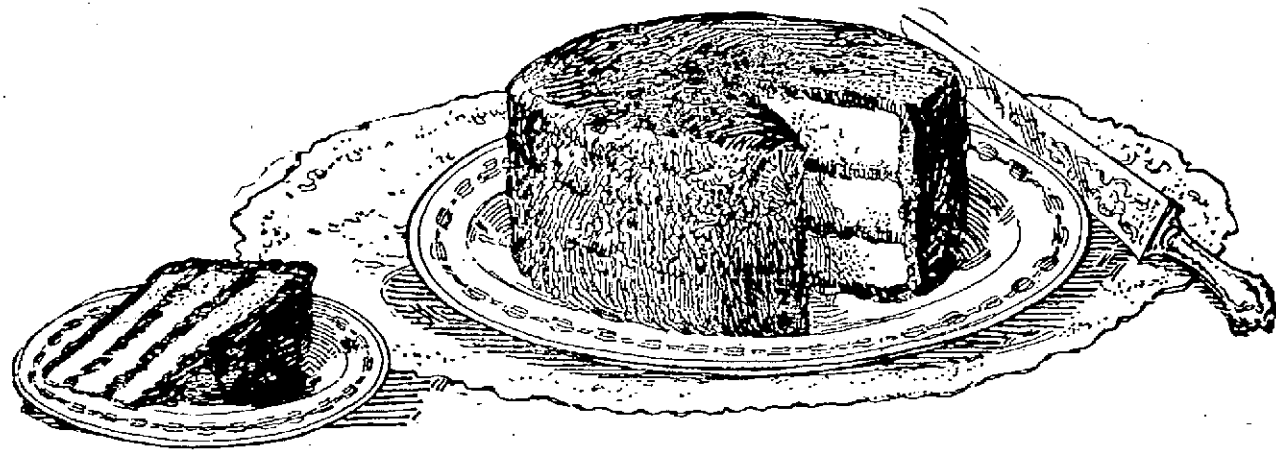

National Subscription in Italy to Give Bodies of Those Who Fell on Mountain Fronts Fitting Sepulchre

ROME, Oct. 29.—A great national subscription is now being made to collect together all the bodies of Italian soldiers who died fighting on the mountain front and are insufficiently buried, all the bones which are whitening on the rocky mountain sides and to give them fitting sepulchre on one of the highest peaks, probably San Michele. It is proposed that a simple, noble monument should be erected under which will rest together officers and soldiers rich and poor. One of the sad phases of Italy's war on the mountain front was the difficulty of burying those who fell fighting. The soil on the Carso range is such a thin crust over the massive rock of which the mountains are formed that dynamite had often to be used in order to make a sufficiently deep grave especially on those historic peaks like Monte Santo, Monte Nero, the Grappa and the Hermonda, where the Italian blood flowed like water. The Austrians originally held all the passes there and dominated the Italians at every point but they were taken and re-taken over and over again until the final victory gave them to Italy forever.

PORTUGAL HOTBED OF SUPERSTITION

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 29.—Portugal, always a hotbed of superstition, now is agitated by what is described as "a phantom sewing-machine." Columns of the daily newspapers are filled with letters reporting cases in which a mysterious sound resembling that produced by a sewing-machine has been heard. Other communications are from scientists, philosophers and spiritualists attempting to explain its origin.

The Lisbon newspapers say the strange sound was first heard about three months ago in a house in Oporto at midnight and the newspapers add that hundreds of people have heard the same sound since but at different places.

It is reported that one family abandoned their house at a fashionable bathing resort because they had heard the sound for six successive nights. At Sintra a young girl is seriously ill from fright and her parents declare they heard the sound for several hours each night apparently coming from the bed railings.

The popular explanation is that the sound of a seamstress has been doomed to haunt the world to expiate a sin and, all through the provinces, the peasants are praying for her repose.

PORT IMPROVEMENTS FOR ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 29.—Extensive port improvement works are proposed for Argentina. Work has begun on improving the port at Comodoro Rivadavia, the outlet for the oil fields. Wharves and warehouses are to be built at a cost of $1,700,000 for taking care of imports and shipment of petroleum. This work is being done by the government.

At Rosario, the second port of the country, it is proposed to spend $3,000,000 gold increasing dockage and warehouse facilities. No important additions have been made to this port for ten years and expansion is said to be badly needed. If the plans made are approved by the Minister of Public Works preparations will be made to execute them immediately.

MANY SWEEPED TO DEATH

Passengers Forced to Ride on Roofs of Trains in Rumania

BUCHARPST, RUMANIA, Oct. 29.—If Americans feel that their subways, railroads and trolley cars are crowded, conditions in Rumania and other parts of the Balkans are worse. Railroad traffic today in Rumania is so great that passengers ride on the roofs of every train by the hundreds. When the tops of the trains are so crowded that they can hold no more, the passengers cling to the running boards, ride on the bumpers and even on the under-work of the car. The fare is the same whether the passenger rides in a compartment or on the roof of the car. Accidents are frequent. Often when a train has entered a tunnel a number of passengers have been swept off the roof to their death.

The congested traffic is due to the small number of locomotives and coaches available and to insufficient trackage. Most of the country's rolling stock was carried off by the Germans or destroyed. Some of the locomotives and cars have been replaced, but the number is far from adequate. A large American locomotive concern has contracted to send a number of engines here, taking in payment a quantity of oil.

There are at present less than 3,000 locomotives in Rumania, including the newly-acquired provinces of Transylvania and Bessarabia. About half this number are in order. Most of them are of German or Hungarian construction. There is such a shortage of passenger coaches that box cars often are used for the conveyance of the public.

The total trackage in Greater Rumania is about 10,500 miles. This has to serve an area of nearly 300,000 square miles and a population of 18,000,000. Many of the steel rails are almost entirely worn out and the road beds are in need of major repairs. Rumanian railway officials say that American railroad men and engineers would do well to investigate business prospects in Rumania. Railroads must be constructed and others double-tracked. The country will require an enormous quantity of railroad supplies to re-equip and reconstruct the lines that suffered during the war. Bridges also must be built, canals cut and harbors extended.

TIPS AND RECIPES
BY SISTER MARY

(Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)

Sometimes when you want some sour milk for a cake the milk doesn't seem quite sour enough. Milk that is just "turned" requires but a small amount of soda, not enough to give lightness to the cake.

There are two things one may do.

Use the small amount of soda to sweeten the milk and use baking powder for rising or add a little vinegar to the milk and use the rule of soda. If too much soda has been put into batter for cake cakes the addition of vinegar will take care of the excess of soda.

Menu For Tomorrow

Breakfast—Sliced peaches, cereal with top milk, fried bread, syrup, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked green corn, graham muffins, loganberry dumplings, tea.

Dinner—Cream of celery soup, veal birds, buttered carrots, endive salad, toasted crackers, maple whipped cream, puff, coffee.

My Own Recipes

Fill puff shells with whipped cream and pour over the whole, a maple sauce. The whipped cream should be slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla. A layer of "sifted" salt should be mixed with the sugar.

BAKED GREEN CORN

1/2 cup butter
3 onions
2 green peppers
2 tomatoes
2 cups green corn cut from cob
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoonful pepper

Peel and chop onions. Remove seeds from peppers and chop. Peel tomatoes and slice thin. Melt butter in baking dish and take out half. Put a layer of tomatoes in bottom of dish. Add corn mixed with pepper and onion. Add another layer of tomatoes and more corn and so on until all is used. Season with salt and pepper and pour over remaining butter. Bake twenty-five or thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

LOGANBERRY DUMPLINGS

2 cups loganberries
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups water
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoonful baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Water to make soft dough.

Canned or dehydrated berries may be used. Put berries, water, sugar and butter in a sauce pan with a tight cover. When this reaches the boiling point drop in from a teaspoon, balls of soft dough made by sifting the flour, baking powder and salt together and cutting in the water. Cover tightly and keep at the boiling point for fifteen minutes. Serve at once.

The Lowell Mechanic Phalanx Veterans association will hold its first annual meeting, target shoot and supper at the Dracut Rifle range tomorrow, on Saturday afternoon, October 30, advertisement of which appears on the first page of today's paper.

Every former member of Company C, 6th Regiment is invited to attend whether or not they have already joined the association. Fine prizes donated by Lowell's leading merchants will be given to winners of the target shoot, which begins at 1:30 o'clock, and a splendid supper provided by the D. L. Page company will be served at 5 o'clock.

Present members of the association would be delighted to meet all former members of the company and renew old associations. Several of the former officers of the association have sent enthusiastic acceptances to be present, among them Captain O. M. Pratt and Col. Alexander Gregg, who are coming from some distance and who will speak at the after-dinner exercises.

Russian Offers Reward for Capture of American Commander of Polish Air Force

WARSAW, Oct. 23.—Polish army intelligence officers report that Moscow offered a reward of 1,000,000 rubles for the capture, dead or alive, of Major Cedric E. Fauntleroy, of Chicago, and McGhee, Ark., commander of the Polish air forces of the southern front. Gen. Rudenny's failure to take Lemberg, when the Bolsheviks made the August drive upon Warsaw, is attributed by Lenin and Trotsky chiefly to the fight against the Cossacks from the air.

Major Fauntleroy was recently appointed chief of aviation of the Sixth Polish army. He has four squadrons under his command, one of which is the Keschusko air organization composed chiefly of Americans. Aviators of that squadron, under the command of Capt. George M. Crawford of Wilmington, Del., are known by Bolshevik soldiers of the southern front as "devils of the air," according to recently captured red soldiers.

During the two days in August when Gen. Rudenny was striving with every force at his command to break the Polish southern front and dash into Lemberg, the Bolsheviks in the north having virtually reached the outskirts of Warsaw, the four squadrons of the Sixth army made 129 flights, dropped 15,000 pounds of bombs and used 16,700 machine gun bullets in attacks.

Gen. Rozwadowski, chief of staff of the Polish army, in a communication to the chief of aviation, says:

Activities of the squadrons of the Sixth army in battles with the cavalry army of Rudenny were directed with the greatest efficiency. This being acknowledged by statements of Bolshevik prisoners and Soviet wireless messages.

One wireless message signed by Rudenny and intercepted by the Poles said: "In battles near Lemberg, our cavalry troops sustained great losses from Polish airplanes which flew in squadrons of 12 planes bombing and covering the soldiers with machine gun fire."

Reviewing the work of aviators of the southern front, Gen. Rozwadowski wrote: "The extraordinary maneuvers of the air squadrons of the sixth army are due to the organizing ability and unlimited energy of the army's chief of aviation, Maj. Fauntleroy, to whom I convey the highest praise for the enthusiasm with which he has fought for Poland's cause."

Maj. Fauntleroy was decorated recently by Chief of State Pilsudski with the virtuti militari, the highest military award of the Polish government. The major, who has been a member of the Polish army more than a year, receives in pay, at the present rate of exchange owing to the low value of the Polish mark, about $16 per month.

COOLIDGE FOR LEAGUE

Denies Harding Has Scrapped

It — Opposes Johnson-Borah Stand

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—New York harked back to the traditions of the last century last night when its historic thoroughfares, Broadway and Fifth avenue, resounded behind Calvin Coolidge, republican candidate for vice president.

Not since 1896, when thousands of marchers fell into line under the colors of McKinley, has the city witnessed so great a political demonstration in its streets.

Gov. Coolidge occupied the rear seat in a large open touring car and surrounded by silk-hatted dignitaries, was the least conspicuous figure in the entire procession, except on the rare occasions when he stood up to uncover and bow his thanks to the enthusiastic crowd which cheered his passing.

The parade, which included both men and women, began shortly after six o'clock. Forming in Broadway with the head of the column in the heart of the wholesale mercantile section, and its tail at the Battery, the procession, illuminated by thousands of electric lights carried by the marchers, moved up the famous street, increasing in size as it proceeded on its way.

Leading the column, Gov. Coolidge rode in an automobile from Worth st. and lower Broadway to the Union League club on Fifth avenue where he dismounted and watched the passing procession on a reviewing stand erected over the sidewalk. Leaving this point of vantage long before the parade was over, the candidate went to Carnegie hall, before an audience which taxed its capacity, he took issue with those who condemned Senator Harding for rejecting parts and retaining parts of the League of Nations covenant.

Last night's address was Governor Coolidge's first public appearance in New York since his nomination and great crowds turned away from the doors of the hall where he spoke, joined with the paraders in making the metropolis ring with cheers of "Coolidge night."

In his speech, Gov. Coolidge promised that under a republican administration the United States "will continue to contribute its full power to the building of civilization," although he admitted that "what form the new association of nations will take no man can tell."

There will be some difference of opinion as to whether or not the candidate for second place on the republican ticket threw any light on the attitude of Senator Harding, but he at least made his own views clear. The governor threw into high relief the strong difference of opinion which exists in the republican party over the league. While "Hearin' Bill" Borah and Senator Hiram Johnson were thundering from western platforms their belief that Harding would scrap the league, Governor Coolidge was telling the people of New York that these statesmen did not know what they were talking about.

Governor Coolidge denied that the candidate for president had ever said that he would reject the Wilson covenant in its entirety. "Senator Harding has been charged with saying that he was seeking rejection of the entire covenant," declared Mr. Coolidge. "He never said that. He, in common with nearly all the people, desires the rejection of certain obligations of the covenant."

"America must throw her weight on the side of such association of nations as will best promote a durable peace," he said. "But more surprising still, Governor Coolidge indicated further that the Wilson league might be patched up and made acceptable to the republican party. In this connection he said:

"If the security of Europe is so intertwined with the Versailles treaty and with the existing League of Nations that we can make the best progress by taking the good in the treaty and in that covenant and by amending those things which are not consonant with our traditions and habits, surely the republican party platform demands of such a course. Surely the public declarations of Senator Harding permit of such a course."

Again the candidate for vice-president indicated his total lack of sympathy with the stand taken by the irreconcilables in the republican party when he said:

"But myself do not believe, do not believe, that the covenant intended to create a super-government."

WILL OF BISHOP

BEAVEN FILED

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 29.—The will of Bishop Thomas H. Beaven of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield, who died October 5, was filed for probate today. It provides that the bishop's personal estate shall be held in trust for the religious and charitable purposes of the diocese. Bishop Matthew Hopkins of Providence, R. I., is named as executor but he has declined to serve, and the will provides for this contingency by naming Rev. John T. Sheehan of Ware. It is indicated that the estate consists of but a few thousand dollars.

MILL OPERATIVES SEEK EMPLOYMENT

According to reports, a great many mill operatives of Lowell are seeking employment at the Boston and Maine shoe shops in Billerica, but inasmuch as the shop has its full complement of help, very few are given employment.

The plant is running full time and is working on its feet. The workers are in the line of repair for the cars of the company, and so long as the rolling stock of the Boston and Maine is kept in operation, there will be plenty of work at the shops.

WILSON THE MAN BY TUMULTY

Intimate Picture Based on Ten Years as His Private Secretary
Sorrowed Over Need of Ordering Men to War—Never Played to Gallery

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—An intimate picture of the manner of man this Woodrow Wilson really is, based on 10 years as his private secretary and touched here and there with bits of unpublished incidents in the president's official life, was drawn last night by Joseph P. Tumulty, speaking at a democratic dinner meeting, just over the line in Maryland.

Mr. Tumulty described the president as "a man strangely misunderstood by some and as violently misrepresented by others as any man in the whole history of American politics." He had long desired, he said, to tell the country what he knew of Mr. Wilson's character, but had refrained in the knowledge that the president "who shrinks from self-explanation would resent exploitation by his friends."

With the approach of Mr. Wilson's retirement to private life, however, Sec. Tumulty continued, "it seems to me not improper that just before the curtain rises on the last act I modestly step out from my obscurity in the wings, and tell the audience a few things about the leading actor in the great drama of the past eight years."

"Strange to Applaud War Message"

Recalling his 10 years in the "intimate relationship of a private secretary," the speaker said:

"I may be presumed to know at least as much about him as the gentleman who discourses volubly of him in Pullman smokers, on the golf links and in the clubs, who assure you that all they say is fact, for they had it on the word of a friend who passed through Washington once and heard a man say that another man said, etc."

Among incidents on which he drew to relate his subject, Mr. Tumulty recalled the reaction of the president to the applause which greeted delivery of his war message to congress on April 6, 1917.

"On that fateful day," Tumulty said, "I rode with him back from the capitol to the White House, the echo of the applause still ringing in my ears. For a while he sat silent and pale in the cabinet room. At last he said: 'Think what it was they were applauding. It means death for our young men. How strange it seems to applaud that!'"

"That simple remark," Sec. Tumulty continued, "is one key to an understanding of Woodrow Wilson," who, he said, hated and dreaded war with "all of the fibers of his human soul."

Carried Deaths on His Heart

As further evidence of the president's sense of responsibility in the bloodshed by American soldiers, Mr. Tumulty told of the day when news came of American casualties at Vera

NOTED SUFFRAGIST ISSUES STATEMENT

Mrs. Annie M. Sloan, of Buffalo, Declares She Would Not Take All the Money In the World For Good Tanlac Did Her

"I will just say frankly I think Tanlac is perfectly wonderful and I wouldn't take all the money in the world for the good it has done me," said Mrs. Annie M. Sloan, recently, residing at 275 Huntington Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Sloan has resided in Buffalo for the past forty years and is very prominent in club circles, being an active member of the Buffalo City Club, the Lincoln Republican Club, and the Women Voters League.

She represented the women of her city in their appeal to the United States Senate at Washington when the Suffrage Bill was first introduced, and was honored with a membership to the Washington Suffrage Club.

Mrs. Sloan is also deeply interested in church and charity work. Her statement regarding the benefit she has derived from Tanlac will be of widespread interest. She said:

"I have only been taking Tanlac about four weeks, but I am already feeling better than I have felt in years. Why, it just seems as though I have been awarded a new lease on life, and I would be doing an injustice to others who are trying to find relief not to tell what this grand medicine has done for me."

"Some time ago I was compelled to undergo an operation for gallstones, after which I got along very well until about a year and a half ago, when Cruz in 1914."

"When the news came," he said, "the president was quiet all day. He went about his business methodically, with his usual clear judgment and prompt decisions, but that night he sat silent for a long time. At last he said: 'I cannot get it off my heart. It had to be done. It was right. Nothing else was possible, but I cannot forget that it was I who had to order those young men to their deaths.'"

Earlier that year, when word came "that a German vessel, laden with munitions, was on its way to Mexico," President Wilson talked over the telephone with Secs. Bryan and Daniels, and Mr. Tumulty said he also was on the telephone during the conversation. When the situation had been stated to the president, he said, the voice came back clear and firm: "Order Admiral Mayo to take Vera Cruz at once."

"Just before I cut off the connection," Sec. Tumulty continued, "I said a word to the president about the tragedy of it all. His voice responded, no longer clear, but muffled, as when one chokes back a sob: 'What do you think of it, Tumulty?' It means death."

I had a very severe bilious attack. These attacks became frequent and with each one I would have to remain in bed for four or five days.

"About six weeks ago I had another of these attacks and was in such awful pain I almost gave up hope. This spell left me without any energy and so weak I could hardly walk across the room."

"Tanlac has relieved my troubles entirely. I am enjoying splendid health now and am brimful of new strength and energy. Everyone should know of Tanlac."

"Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Greens drug store, Merrimack square, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv."

His Courage and Streness

Sec. Tumulty recalled also Mr. Wilson's determination to ride in the funeral procession of the marines and sailors killed at Vera Cruz when the bodies were brought to New York. Dismissing rumors that an attack was planned on his life had reached secret service men, Mr. Tumulty said, and "one undertook to argue with him saying, 'You will show all proper respect by appearing in the review stand. The country cannot afford to lose its president.'"

"His reply was: 'The country cannot afford to have a coward for president. This was his brief and final answer. He rode in the procession.'"

The sternness of Woodrow Wilson, his secretary declared, was "just the reverse side of his humane nature" and made "nothing more natural" than that he should have become the champion of small nations. The president's insistence upon Article 10 of the League covenant was explained as a wish to forestall the necessity of the United States going to war by making it a participant "in a plan to prevent the beginning of such a war."

"He wished to stop the next war before it should begin," Mr. Tumulty said.

His the Credit For Mining North Sea

In contrast to Mr. Wilson's self-proclaimed "passion for peace," Sec. Tumulty declared that "when the challenge came from Germany to America, when the American mind was ready for war."

"I said the same Woodrow Wilson became the most uncompromising advocate of the most stringent measures for conducting the war."

The speaker recalled the president's speech to officers of the Atlantic fleet in 1917, published long after, in which he said: "I am willing to sacrifice half the navy Great Britain and we together have to crush the submarine nest."

"It was he," Sec. Tumulty continued, "who insisted on mining the North Sea to cut off the German harvest."

Experts said that it could not be done. The civilian Wilson said it could be done, must be done, and it was. It was the civilian Wilson who broached the plan for combining the allied powers in the west under the supreme command of Gen. Foch in order that all the allied forces could be concentrated on the German forces to crush them.

"In his mind the supreme object of this war was to end war."

"Not in Him to Play to Gallery"

The "grave fault" which Sec. Tumulty asserted he found with the President was his ignorance of "how to play to the gallery."

"He does not know how to capitalize his virtues for the front pages of the newspapers," he said. "He is dreadfully poor publicly material. Human from his heart to his finger tips, he does not know how to put his humanity on exhibition."

"As his friend and admirer, I have loved him better because he didn't. There was something too fine in his nature for the dramatics and posturings of the political game as it is usually played."

The secretary told of a journalist who wished to have the president "do one of the stunts that the public dearly loves to read about" and of the comment of the president.

"He said to me: 'Tumulty, you must realize that I am not built for these things. I do not want to be displayed before the public. If I tried to do it I would do it badly. I want people to love me, but they never will.'"

"I have never forgotten the wistful tones in which he spoke those last words: 'But they never will.'"

four words: 'But they never will.'"

Sec. Tumulty said.

Two final pictures Mr. Tumulty said he desired to draw, the first, that of the president in 1917, "a straight, vigorous, slender man, active and alert."

"He is 60 years of age," he said, "but he looks not more than 45, so little of him, so alert of bearing, so virile. It is Woodrow Wilson reading his great war measure."

The other picture is only three and a half years later. There is a parade of veterans of the great war. They are to be reviewed by the president on the east terrace of the White House. In a chair sits a man, your president, broken in health, but still alert in mind. His hair is white, his shoulders bowed, his figure bent. He is 63 years old, but he looks older. It is Woodrow Wilson.

"Presently in the procession there appears an ambulance laden with wounded soldiers, the maimed and the halt and blind. As they pass they salute slowly, reverently."

"The president's right hand goes up in answering salute. I glanced at him. There were tears in his eyes. 'The wounded is greeting the wounded; those in the ambulance, he in the chair are alike, casualties of the great war.'"

"I don't believe in his heart President Wilson regrets his wounds. I fancy he realizes no man could die in a greater cause, but I do sometimes wonder if it ever seems to him strange that when a man has been seriously wounded in his country's service that he should be met with sneers and calumnies from his countrymen."

ROOSEVELT-RATHOM SUIT FOR $500,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic candidate for vice president, yesterday filed papers in a suit for $500,000 against John R. Rathom, editor and publisher of the Providence Journal, and Scott C. Bone and Edward B. Clark, manager and assistant manager of publicity for the republican national committee. Mr. Roosevelt charges the defendants with circulating false and defamatory libel.

An editorial in the Providence Journal charged that Mr. Roosevelt had ascertained or destroyed navy department records and that he had sought personally to return to the ships of the navy, men convicted of various crimes. Mr. Roosevelt made public denial of the charges and then Mr. Rathom sent him a letter outlining specific cases referred to in the editorial. The letter also was published in the Providence Journal.

Mr. Bone and Mr. Clark are made defendants because it is charged by Mr. Roosevelt they widely circulated the letter as republican propaganda.

THOSE TENNIS COURTS

Editor Sun:—I saw a communication in your paper evidently from some dispirited individual sneering at the statement that the pupils of the Moody school of Roger Hall would be disturbed in their work by tennis courts or a playground, for that is what the courts would lead to, in front of their windows. It is very easy for transients to favor tennis courts. I am a resident of the park board at Fort Hill park, but why destroy the most beautiful part of our park system, a real beauty spot? A tennis court? Is there no other place suitable? Is park land so scarce or tennis so essential that the best part of our park system must be dug up and staked off by the construction of tennis courts? What is needed in Belvidere is a ball field. Why not provide that first?

Yours truly,
A PARK DEVOTEE.

4000 IN REPUBLICAN TORCHLIGHT PARADE

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Though the rain badly diminished the number of marchers, the Harding and Coolidge torchlight parade took place in Boston last night according to schedule and in view of the adverse weather conditions members of the republican state committee felt that the last big gun of the republican campaign in Massachusetts was fired with gratifying results.

Plans had been made for 22,000 marchers carrying 16,000 torches. The torches were available all right but if every man, woman and child in the parade had carried a torch on each shoulder there would have been nearly 10,000 to spare. To say that there were 4000 marchers in line is treating those who have worked on the plans for the parade for the past month generously. The police estimated the number in line at 3000. The entire parade took exactly 29 minutes to pass through Newspaper row.

But the comparatively little group of loyal supporters of the G.O.P. who braved the drizzle and plodded with soaked feet and perspiring brows through the wet and slippery streets and humid atmosphere endeavored to make up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers.

While many were surprised that the parade was so small, those who turned out to watch it were more surprised at the amount of company they had.

While there were comparatively few spectators in lower Washington street—Newspaper row—Beacon hill, Tremont and Boylston streets and Park square were jammed, especially in certain localities where some shelter was available. It was estimated that between 50,000 and 60,000 persons were out to see the parade. The police set the figure at 50,000.

The parade itself measured up to the expectations of those who turned out to see it, what there was of it.

Few of the "big guns" scheduled to appear were deterred by the rain, and Mr. Charles Sumner Bird, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Channing Cox also refused to allow the rain to prevent their appearance at the head of the women's division, but for some reason or other few of those in the crowd who watched the parade seemed to recognize Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Cox. Mrs. Bird presented a striking figure, however, dressed entirely in white.

The rain wrought havoc in the ranks of the women's division, and it was evident an hour before the parade started that the fair sex don't care for wet weather. Ten thousand women were scheduled to march. Less than 400 women were in the first division, though many more were scattered through other divisions.

The floats were absent, also, for in the entire parade there were not more than half a dozen of these mobile symbols. The two floats that attracted the most attention were the one immediately following the chief marshal and his staff, in which six young women stood in voting booths under a sign which read: "The Ladies Are With Us" and that of "The Shoe Men and Women Voters," which consisted of a huge white shoe inside of which sat a pretty girl. This float bore a sign proclaiming: "We have faith in our Calvin Coolidge."

Lieut. Gov. Cox and his staff were white capes, with red and white sashes. Behind them came members of the republican state ticket and the republican congressmen, together with a number of the republican right-hand men of the state. Just behind Lieut. Gov. Cox and Col. John W. Dearow, his chief of staff, were the national and state flags, which were illuminated by searchlights from the "women voters" float and two men who carried searchlights strapped to their waists. Mr. Cox and the other members of the state ticket were given a rousing reception, especially on Beacon hill and at the reviewing stand on Tremont street, opposite Avery, where the parade was reviewed by Chairman Frank B. Hall of the republican state committee. Many women were on the reviewing stand, and besides Chairman Hall were Louis A. Coolidge and "Charlie" Pierce of the General Electric company.

HOMES FOR WORKERS

Industrial Homes and Gardens will Make for Success in Future Manufacturing

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Industrial homes and gardens are to be one of the major elements of the many factors that make for success in future manufacturing in the opinion of the special committee which submitted a report today to the Associated Industries of Massachusetts at its annual meeting. E. Preston Clark of the Plymouth

Cordage Co., was chairman of the committee and the other members were Henry S. Dennison of the Dennis Manufacturing Co., Richard H. Rice of the Everett Electric Co., Clifford S. Anderson of the Norton Co. of Worcester, and Thomas Talbot Clark of the Talbot mills, North Billerica.

A hundred years ago the great bulk of Massachusetts citizens were home and land owners, but today while accurate figures are not available, said the report, it is safe to say that less than five per cent of the industrial workers of the state own their own homes. Aside from the actual money worth of the food that could be grown, the report found a garden of value in giving the worker a chance to use the extra time that the shorter day of labor brings, and a chance to satisfy the creative impulse.

"The third brain cells rest" continued the report, "and the man comes back from his garden rested and contented. This is not romance. It is what really happens. History shows no race of people who have owned land they cultivated who became revolutionists. Russia, France, Mexico, all blew up because the people could not get land."

The report presented figures of the cost of labor turnover in certain large industrial plants and pointed out that homes and gardens would automatically reduce this cost. It suggested that a worker before he invested his savings in a house should be made to feel reasonably sure of regular employment and relieved of the fear of arbitrary discharge.

"Our impression," said the report, "is that in a plan of this sort there should be some provision by which a man can be assured that if he wishes to sell, for any reason, the company will buy at a fair price. On the other hand, we do not think he should be compelled to sell, should he leave the employ of the company. There should be just as few strings on the houses and gardens as is consistent with the reasonable protection of the company."

"There is one other angle from which this matter may be thought of,

IT PAYS TO MAKE SURE—BUYING AT THE BROADWAY MEANS NO DISAPPOINTMENT

Looking at the Hat You Ought to Buy—And Buying the Hat You Haven't Looked at

That happens to a lot of women. DON'T LET IT HAPPEN TO YOU THIS FALL.

Here's what they do. They go into a store and ask for a good hat and try it on. So far so good. That's the only way to get a good, satisfactory, stylish hat. Then they go somewhere else and try on a hat a little lower in price. That old dollar gets in front of their eyes and after that they can't see anything but price. Pretty soon they aren't looking at anything but price marks. The hat they finally buy is one they literally HAVEN'T LOOKED AT.

No woman ever looked her best in a hat bought because it seemed "cheaper" than the one she wanted.

It is on that theory that the BROADWAY WHOLESALE MILLINERY CO. asks and merits your patronage; for where every hat is right, you can not go wrong.

Do not be confused by the supposed "bargains" offered about town by concerns over-anxious to attract your attention. Remember, please, while the Broadway Wholesale Millinery Co. assures you always of the highest quality of materials and the latest and most authentic styles, BUYING YOUR HAT HERE IS INEXPENSIVE, assured so by our direct-to-wearer, chain store, wholesale price method, saving you 1-3 to 1-2 the profits others ask.

BROADWAY THE STORE THAT ALWAYS SATISFIES

The ebb of labor from the farms to industry is a national fact today. It may prove, by the method which we have suggested, possible to bring farms to the people when it is not possible or perhaps desirable to induce the people to go to the farms. It may be that with the shorter day, the worker will become a two job man instead of a one job man, and that this change will bring a better balance into our industrial life. In touching this matter we can feel it is done at a time when there is a better feeling between employers and workers in Massachusetts than for many years. We have much farther to go in industrial relations, but we are making headway."

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

Late yesterday afternoon a verdict in the sum of $5000 was rendered for the plaintiff in the case of Louisa M. Hannaford of Lexington vs. the Charles River Trust Co. for damages which was tried at the local civil session of the superior court. The plaintiff sued to recover $5000 and interest thereon, claiming that she was the holder of a mortgage which she put up as security for a loan procured by her at the defendant bank, and she alleged that when the loan was paid, instead of releasing the mortgage, the bank discharged it.

FRUIT CANNING CONTEST

Prizes in the fruit canning contest which was held at the Charles W. Morey school, Wednesday under the direction of Miss Forbes of the Middlesex county farm bureau, were awarded as follows: Miss Jessie Rose, 27½; Ernestine Brigham, 25½; and Eleanor Valliant, 24½. The other contestants, all of whom received a percentage higher than 50 were Margaret Ryan, Dorothy McNeil, Ada Lamberton and Myrtle Holt.

NARROW ESCAPE

Men Thrown Over Bridge Into Concord River Swim Ashore—Horse Good Swimmer, Marchand, a Mr. Polier and a Mr. Layole, all three residents of South Lowell, had a narrow escape from drowning last evening, when the buggy in which they were riding toppled over the Lawrence street bridge into the Concord river. Fortunately, the three men were able to swim and they "popped" their way to shore. The horse, which was hitched to the rig, also managed to swim to shore. The buggy was badly damaged.

It seems that the rig, which is owned by Mr. Marchand was proceeding across the bridge, which is being repaired, when suddenly an automobile operated by Joseph Schofield of 33 England street, made its appearance on the bridge. The horse becoming frightened, reared into the air and sidestepped to the edge of the bridge and fell into the water, dragging along the buggy and its three occupants.

FATHER AND SON

Men of Round Table of the First Baptist Church Hear Interesting Address by Y.M.C.A. Secretary

The necessity of closer relationship between father and son was the subject of an address given last night by Byron N. Clark, Vermont state secretary of the Y.M.C.A., at a meeting of the Men of the Round Table of the First Baptist church. Previous to the speaking and the business meeting a dinner was served by the Ladies of the Benevolent society. At the close of the dinner popular songs were sung by the men and boys and short addresses were given by Edward Balcock, pastor of the church, and H. E. Howe, secretary of the local Y.M.C.A. Harry L. Woodman, president of the organization, presided.

"The boy problem," said Mr. Clark, "is new every time a new generation comes on the scene, but it is also an old, old problem. The very government of our great country depends upon our solution, so that it behooves us to use the greatest possible care in our relations with our boys."

"Every father can realize what a problem a boy is. First, he is a great economic problem. I have just been paying the bills at my boys' camp and I realize how much it costs to feed a real, live, active boy. I also realize how a boy will tear clothes and shoes to pieces, tear carpets and rugs and tear floors and furniture, but more than all else I realize how some parents think more of the condition of the rugs and furniture than they do of the social and moral condition of their boys. Of course a boy spends most of his early childhood with his mother but isn't it a fact, that at the critical time of a boy's life the strong love and confidence of a father is what he most needs?"

"The boy problem will never be solved until the man problem has been solved, for whatever a boy sees his father do that is what the boy will do. A boy is a true hero worshipper and no matter what his father may tell him to do he will always follow his father's leadership. It must be perfectly clear to you now here, that it is necessary for you to get into closer touch with your boy in order that he may see that you do nothing of which you will be ashamed of and thus lead him to a true Christian life which is the main thing in the life of a boy."

OVERCOATINGS

The $40 to $45 Grade

Seven styles genuine Valley Falls, plaid back Overcoatings with the original tickets, purchased a short time ago direct from the mill, and one of the owners, JAMES H. HORSFALL, formerly of Lowell, now part owner of the above named mill. These are positively the greatest value in New England today. 30 ounces in weight; colors in browns, olives, greys, all plaid backs, absolutely all wool with a finish of Vicuna and the stability and firmness of worsteds. These same grades are sold by high-priced tailors and clothiers today at prices ranging $50.00 to $65.00.

For today and Saturday I'll hurl quality woollens from their lofty pinnacle down--- down to popular prices, no quality too good--- no price too low for my customers. The greatest range of overcoat styles in Lowell, the biggest stock of exclusive patterns in the city.

SAYS LUSITANIA CARRIED ARMS FOR ENGLAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Dudley Field Malone, candidate for governor on the farmer-labor ticket, and former collector of the port of New York, in an address last night, declared that when the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine, she carried a consignment of 4200 cases of cartridges for the British government which contained nearly 11 tons of black powder. The assertion was made in citing the case of Senator LaFollette who charged that the Lusitania carried explosives for the British.

"When the record of the Wilson administration becomes a matter of open history," Mr. Malone declared, "the world will realize that no government ever perpetrated such a reign of oppression and secrecy upon a people."

Mr. Malone said that when Senator LaFollette declared that the Lusitania carried explosives consigned to the British government, he was "immediately slated for expulsion from the senate, and, as we all remember, came within a hair's breadth of that fate."

"When Senator LaFollette was on trial before the senate elections committee within his right as a senator," he continued, "he demanded from the treasury department a copy of the report of the collector of the port of New York, on condition and cargo of the Lusitania, the state department refused him on the ground that the report had become a part of the secret archives. As it happened, I wrote this report on the Lusitania because I had examined the Lusitania in my capacity as collector of the port of New York."

"And it was agreed upon the evidence supplied by me that the Lusitania was not armed, that President Wilson wrote his famous second Lusitania note to the German imperial government. But in my view, the ruthlessness of the German U-boat warfare could not justify the Washington administration in persecuting Senator LaFollette for telling the truth, nor could German militarism be offered as a reason for refusing to tell the American people just what the Lusitania had on board when she was sunk."

"I considered then and I consider now that the persecution of LaFollette on a charge which the administration knew to be false from evidence in its own possession, was a frame-up on Senator LaFollette and a fraud on the American people."

"When I heard that Senator LaFollette was refused access to my report I informed his counsel and told his counsel to inform the government that I would testify in support of the senator's statements and that I would not remain silent and see any man crucified for telling the truth. Whereupon the trial was postponed from week to week and finally dropped. It has been admitted by the German admiralty that the Lusitania was struck by a German torpedo. But it will never be known whether or not there was a second explosion in the Lusitania's cargo which made her sink before she could be beached. We do not know and never will know actually what was in all the boxes and cases which made up this cargo. But we did know that there was one consignment on board the Lusitania of 4200 cases of Springfield metallic cartridges, each case containing 1000 cartridges, with five pounds of black powder to each 1000 cartridges. Therefore, there was concentrated in one consignment in the hold of the vessel a shipment of nearly 11 tons of black powder, which by the impact of the torpedo may very well have contributed to the incredibly rapid sinking of the great liner. The other consignments of ammunition and shrapnel known to have been on the Lusitania were consigned to the British government, but contained no explosives."

"President Wilson was perfectly right when he denied the charge made by the German government that the Lusitania was armed. She was not armed. But the administration was dead wrong when it sought to keep from public knowledge all the facts about the Lusitania case."

"No matter what may be the individual opinions on the Lusitania or any other question of public importance, we must teach our political leaders and our government that the American people are not willing to learn the whole truth about anything, and are willing to draw their own conclusions, when all the facts are presented. The autocratic suppression of the truth through the arrogant oligarchy of the leaders of both old parties is merely another reason why the people at this election are seeking for a new kind of administration, politics and government."

CARTOON APPROVED BY G. O. P. LEADERS

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—The new famous cartoon, depicting President Wilson as "The Greatest Healer" and making comic sport of the Sacred Heart and the immaculate conception, had the approval of the directors of the national republican party campaign.

The fact that it had the official stamp of approval of those entrusted with the management of the Harding campaign is believed to be proved by the fact that the cartoon appeared on October 3 first in the National Republican, the organ of the national republican party, published in Washington, D. C.

In further evidence of its having met the favor of the leaders of the republican party it is pointed out that the cartoon appeared during the past several weeks in the leading republican newspapers of the west and south, and that on no occasion has there been a protest against its continued use.

The publication of this cartoon within the past week in the periodical of George Harvey, close friend and adviser of the republican standard bearer, after it had been used for weeks in leading republican papers and in the national organ of the party, published at the capital of the nation, is believed indubitably to place the responsibility of the publication of this cartoon with the inner circle that is running the national republican campaign.

WILL TALK ON METHODS OF VOTING

On Monday evening next, William N. Goodell, president of the chamber of commerce, will deliver an instructive address on the methods of voting, the duties of state and national officers and the methods of electing them, at a public meeting for women to be held at the Girls' Community Service club in the Runnels building. The time for the opening of the meeting is set at 8 o'clock so that attendants' evening schools in the city may visit the club after classes. Invitation is extended by the directors of the club to all women of the city to be present so that the duty of voting on the following day will be made easier for them. The meeting will not take the form of a discussion of party issues or candidates.

So as to make the voting demonstration as nearly practical as possible, a ballot box will be used and the women will be shown the correct way of marking and depositing ballots. The program committee of the club will be in charge of the meeting and they will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at 6.30 o'clock to complete arrangements. Those on the committee are: Helen Kelly, chairman; Blanche McKay, Mary O'Brien, Beatrice McDonald, and Gertrude McGahy.

RIGHT HAND FRACTURED
Ushea Vaso of Arch street, an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad, is confined in the Lowell General hospital as a result of an accident which occurred at the engine house, Middlesex Village, about midnight, when he was engaged in filling an engine water-tender. Vaso's right hand was fractured. He is kept under observation at the hospital as the doctors suspect that developments in regard to internal injuries may arise. Vaso was working on an engine tender under a water-spout. In some way the spout was swung around so that it struck him in the stomach and hand, throwing him to the ground. He was taken immediately to the hospital.

Duchess of Marlborough

DUCHESS TO WED. SPORTSMAN

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Duchess of Marlborough, whose proceedings for a divorce have reached the final stage, will marry Jacques Balsan, the French sportsman, it is reported. The Duchess of Marlborough before her marriage was Countess Vanderbilt. Balsan, though well known on the turf, has had aviation for his chief hobby for several years. He distinguished himself on the front and was a lieutenant colonel at the end of the war. He is a vice president of the French Aero club. The Duchess of Marlborough is a familiar figure in French society.

HARDING OPENS FINAL CAMPAIGN SWING

AKRON, O., Oct. 29.—Renewing his challenge to democratic leaders to show inconsistency or change of position in his utterances on the league issue, Senator Harding declared in a speech here last night that he had stood unflinchingly against accepting membership in the Versailles league, but in favor of an international association founded on principles of justice.

The republican nominee also repeated his faith in party government, and asserted that he did not desire to be president unless a republican congress also were elected to translate republican promises into performance. He made a special plea for a republican senate, declaring the nation owed to the present senate a debt of gratitude that never could be paid. Charges of a "senate oligarchy" he pronounced as entirely false.

He declared that he was not the candidate of any clique or combination, but was absolutely "unpledged" and "unbossed."

The senator spoke in the armory here before a crowd which packed every available square inch of space and interrupted the address many times with cheering.

In stating his position on the league, Mr. Harding declared he had voted for ratification with reservations because that was the only way the senate could deal with the problem as it was presented by the president. He outlined the argument in favor of the reservations on mandates, withdrawal and Article Ten and said that all the republican qualifications had been designed "to limit our obligations, not to make them clearer."

Objections to American Mandate

The president's proposal for a mandate over Armenia, he asserted, had shown in striking fashion the wisdom of republican reservations. He added that although the United States sympathized with Armenia, it could not afford to send an army of 75,000 to 100,000 there, "after Great Britain and France had taken all the desirable territory bordering on Armenia, leaving to Uncle Sam the starving and oppressed people of Armenia."

In his discussion of party government and the league he said:

"I would not want to be your president unless you are going to give us a republican congress to translate republican promises into legislative enactments. It is very important to have a majority in the United States senate and you ought always to think of the senate as saving to you your American liberty. Don't be distressed about the so-called senatorial oligarchy. There isn't a man in the senate who has succeeded this year in having the senate into a completely useful agent if it had not been for the interference of the chief executive who was not satisfied with running his own end of Pennsylvania ave."

Where He Stands on League

"Of they say, 'you cannot tell where Harding stands on the league. Well, let me see if I can tell you where I stand. I am at least entitled to speak for myself. I have been speaking since the 22d of last July, and I challenge any democrat in America, high or low, to find a contradiction in anything I have said."

"I said in the beginning that we were opposed to an armed military alliance with the Old World, and I say now, I have said frequently, and I say now, that we are never going to have anything to do with a league with Article X in it."

"I have said repeatedly that America does not intend to assist that league. It is true, that as a member of the United States senate, I voted to ratify the peace treaty and the league covenant with reservations, but when I voted there were attached to the covenant reservations to safeguard the independence of the United States."

"I have said from July 22 to now, and I repeat to you, and I know I speak what is in your hearts—America means to play her part in a new relationship among the nations of the world."

"I have not preserved the specific thing, because I have not yet come into authority. I do not pretend to prescribe the specific future of the world."

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing, and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete cures. After other treatments have failed, sufferers who could scarcely have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the work of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, get out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Borax (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Caution: Used in this way not only to relieve by tonic action the inflammation and swelling of the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form of distressing ringing, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.—Adv.

ADMISSION OF GERMANY

League Faces Scrap at November Meeting on Enemy Nations

BY MILTON BLOOMER.
European Manager, N.E.A.
LONDON, Oct. 29.—Shall Germany and the other ex-enemy countries be admitted to the League of Nations? That is going to be the cause of the biggest fight at the initial meeting of the assembly of the League in Geneva in November.
Scandinavia says "Yes."
France says "No."
Great Britain will probably say "Yes."
And the fight is on to round up enough votes either to accept or reject, according as one looks at it.
Will Use United States
Singularly enough, the United States, which is not in the League and which will not be represented at the sessions of the assembly, will be used by French statesmen as the excuse for keeping Germany out of the League.

When the assembly meets, it is very probable Sweden, backed up by Norway and Denmark, will propose that Germany be made a member of the League. The view of the Scandinavian statesmen is no League for the former enemy countries as long as they are excluded from it.

French statesmen, I understand, are trying to line up a block of states in opposition to Germany.

Her Trump Card
As a result of this, France is springing her biggest card. It is this:

The United States has not made peace with Germany. She is still technically at war with Germany. Shall the powers admit to the League a state with which America is still at war? Especially shall they do so before America has definitely and finally taken her own stand as regards the League? And, finally, shall the powers take so-called "snap" action on the matter of Germany in November, when the new administration the American people elect in that month will have no power over American foreign policies until next March?

It is hard to predict whether the French will succeed. One thing is certain, they are up against a difficult proposition. It takes two-thirds vote in the assembly to admit a state to the League. That means that France will have to line up 13 states. It's going to be a hard task to get that number.

REPUBLICAN RALLY IN NO. CHELMSFORD

John Jacob Rogers asserted that industrial curtailment is due to the falling off of exports and increase in imports to and from European countries. In a speech at a republican rally in North Chelmsford town hall last night, he claimed that a protected tariff is urgently needed and that this can only be secured through the election of Harding and Coolidge. Other speakers were John L. Hasley of Boston, Senator Frank H. Putnam and Representative Henry Achin, Benjamin

Cole presided.
In his address Mr. Rogers said that the democratic administration had fallen down as a consequence of its failure to select properly qualified men for office. He claimed that the democratic policies had been inimical to the interests of New England, and had favored the southern states. He asserted that it had been proved that a republican administration is more effective in handling the affairs of the nation than a democratic one.

"The League of Nations" was the subject of the address by John L. Hasley. He said that there is a great difference between the leagues advocated by the republicans and the democrats. He gave considerable time to a discussion of the interpretation that might be placed on Article 10. In concluding, he told his audience that if it wished to secure its own safety with true American ideals they should vote for the republican candidates.

Senator Putnam spoke briefly, and was followed by Representative Achin, who urged women voters to give the most serious consideration to the issues of the campaign. He told them that unless they voted the straight republican ticket they might live to regret their mistake.

LORD KENYON

BRITISHER CHALLENGES COUSIN TO DUEL

(N.E.A. Staff Special)
LONDON, Oct. 29.—The most amazing character in England today is Sir Claude Champion de Crespigny, a 73-year-old baronet, who has challenged his cousin, Lord Kenyon, 17 years his junior and a close friend of the king, to a duel "to vindicate his honor." The trouble started over a little dispute over some property and the subsequent sending of a white feather to Lord Kenyon by the dashing duelist.

Sir Claude does not belong to the twentieth century of taxis, movies, phones and fox trots. He is a reincarnation of the kind of men who raised the Crusades. He was born at least 500 years too late.

At first the challenge was taken by both Lord Kenyon and the public as a joke. But Sir Claude says he is in deadly earnest.

Sir Claude's life has been one narrative of hair-breadth escapes and adventures. He has crossed the North Sea in a balloon; swam the narrow gut of the first Nile catamaran; fought to the death a charging rhinoceros, and figured in many fights with insolent waiters and cab drivers. Sir Claude was always "mumshard with his mitts."

Challenge "Absurd"

Lord Kenyon is England's tallest peer, he stands six feet four, as against his cousin's five feet seven. He says the challenge is "too absurd." His cousin, he made known, challenged him before, some years ago, in Athens.

This "patels for two" and "Hyde Park at dawn" stuff, Sir Claude has forgotten, went out on fashion long before crinolines did.

The most famous duels of the 19th century, between the Earl of Cardigan and Captain "Luckett."

Four years later Queen Victoria was successful in having a law passed, making dueling a punishable offense.

ANNUAL HALLOWEEN PARTY
The annual annual annual party, held in the Girls' Community Service club dance hall in the Runels building last night. Employees of the store and their friends attended. It was the first time that the club hall was leased to any outside organization. The hall was decorated in black and yellow. Many of the dancers were in costume. Mayor and Mrs. Thompson were guests during the evening. The affair was given under the management of J. Raymond Cannon, manager of the Lowell store, and Misses Doris Dempsey and Josephine Welcomes.

MILL CURTAILMENT AFFECTS RAILROADS

Curtailling of business in the local mills has affected conditions in the local freight yards and depots. Local officials of the Boston and Maine reported this morning that many freight handlers and switchmen have been laid off because of the lack of work, but that these men would be restored to their positions just as soon as business conditions would warrant it. The number of men now employed at the freight depots in this city is far below normal.

The rush of farm products, 1919-ality apples and older, from the north has not started as yet, and it was stated by an official this morning that tardiness in regard to older apples is the high cost of apples. Freight slackness in this city not only extends to the mills, but includes other industries and shippers not generally affected by cut-downs in working force.

ALL SAINTS' DAY

Monday, Nov. 1, will be All Saints' day, and will be observed in the Catholic churches as a holy day of obligation. Tuesday will be All Souls' day, set apart for prayers for the repose of the souls of departed ones.

ATHLETIC COMPETITION

The Y.M.C.A.'s of Massachusetts and Rhode Island are planning regional and sectional athletic competition in athletics, basketball and wrestling. The state will be divided into sections to include the associations about Providence, Greater Boston and the Merrimack valley. The local association will leave the matter of joining the organization in the hands of Physical Director Parker. Men are needed for the short dashes, and relay races, high jump, broad jump and shot put. All those interested should get in touch with Mr. Parker as this will provide excellent opportunity for interstate athletics in the future.

In Payta, Peru, the interval between showers is about seven days.

Admires Gov. Cox's Course and when they set this great government up."

The latter follows:
24th of October, 1920.
"My Dear Governor Cox:
As the campaign approaches its climax, I want to give myself the pleasure of writing to say with what admiration I have followed your course throughout the campaign. You have shown truly and fearlessly about the great issues at stake, and I believe that you will receive the emphatic endorsement of the voters of the state. As one of those voters, and as one of your fellow citizens, I want to express my entire confidence in you and my confident hope that under your leadership we may carry the policy of the national government forward along the path of liberal legislation and humane reform, until the whole world again sees an illustration of the whole strength of democracy and the happy fruit of what the founders of the republic purposed when they set this great government up.

"Allow me to sign myself,
"Your grateful and loyal supporter,
"WOODROW WILSON."

McGraw Indicted

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, yesterday was indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of violating the Volstead act. The indictment was returned on evidence presented by Federal Assistant District Attorney Edward H. Reynolds, who investigated the fracas at the Lambs club last August between McGraw and John C. Stavin, a musical comedy actor. The indictment charges that on that date McGraw had illegal possession of a bottle of whiskey. The minimum penalty for such an offense is a $500 fine.

The grand jury action, it was learned, resulted from statements attributed to McGraw in press reports during investigation of the Lambs club fracas. In these he was quoted as saying he bought two bottles of whiskey at the club shortly before the trouble.

POLO
Providence, vs. Lowell
Crescent Rink—Tonight

Providence here tonight.

Soxy Lyons, the Providence halfback, who will play here tonight against Lowell, is one of the best players in the league. He's a big fellow, and is absolutely fearless. He's a southpaw, and this fact has a tendency of upsetting many of the opposing rushers. White never backing away from an opponent, he is one of the cleanest playing halfbacks in the league.

Lanky Harry Thompson, second rush of the Gold Bugs, is another high class player. He's a fast skater and a fine hitter.

Messie Conley, goal tender for Providence, is one of the leaders, and when in form is very stingy.

Bob Hart is out to win tonight's game and place Lowell back in the running. The team has been experiencing rather bad luck the last few weeks, but Bob is out to regain some of the lost ground.

FOOTBALL CHALLENGE: The "Platts" football eleven challenges any team in or out of the city, weighing 115 pounds, for games in Lowell. Telephone 1019-W, any evening between 6 and 7 o'clock.

ROUSING FOOTBALL
GAMES TOMORROW

Lowell football fans will have another excellent program on tap tomorrow afternoon when Lowell Textile and Lowell high school eleven will line up against some of their strongest opponents of the season.

Out at the Moody street campus the Lowell school eleven will clash with the Harvard second team. Coaches Hudson and Mackay consider tomorrow's scrimmage one of the hardest games of the season. Several new formations will be worked against the warriors of the crimson and special attention has been given to methods of meeting Harvard's attack.

Harvard is expected to bring the strongest members of the squad and there is little doubt but what the Lowell line will be outwitted several pounds in the main. Several of the Harvard have lost on the sick bed since last Saturday's scorching game with M.I.T. but it is expected that they will be able to play tomorrow.

CHANGES IN BOXING

Announcements "Hitch Hops Are Members of This Club" Heard No More in Massachusetts Ring.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Boxing is no longer a quarter century professional matches are open to public patronage under legal sanction, and it is no longer necessary for a man who wishes to see a bout to first join a club over the members of which referees have been the moderators and boxers the only members of the sodalite stand. The familiar announcement in three boxing rings that "both are members of this club" is heard no more. The new order of things is the result of a law establishing a state boxing commission, and stipulating some of the conditions under which the sport may be conducted. These provide for a board of three referees, one of them to be appointed by the commission, under bonds of $500. Decisions are given by a referee and two judges, chosen by the commission.

BOARDERS AND LOOPERS
JOIN STRIKERS

Most of the boarders employed at the Lawrence hosiery and practically all the loopers employed in the same mill have joined the ranks of the workers who went out on strike Monday morning after refusing to accept a reduction in wages. This announcement was made last evening at a meeting of the male employees, which was held in Loomfitters' hall in City Hall avenue. The meeting was presided over by John Hanley, a member of the executive board of the United Textile Workers of America.

The women employees of the plant gathered in Trades and Labor hall last evening, the meeting being presided over by Walter Roche, president of the Lowell Textile Council. There were about 500 women present. It was also stated that the workers prefer shorter hours to a reduction in wages. It was announced that a meeting of the boarders will be held this afternoon in Trades and Labor hall, the speaker to be General Organizer Thomas J. Regan of the United Textile Workers of America. A meeting for the men will be held in Loomfitters' hall Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

It was announced this morning that if they disagree. Under the commission's rules there can be no draw. Every person connected with a bout must be licensed—physician, referee, timekeeper, boxer, manager, trainer or second. The physician is required to examine the contestants three hours before the bout and to certify in writing that each boxer is physically fit. Licenses bear a photograph of the boxer, with the idea of preventing impersonations.

Referee and judges are assigned by the commission to authorize bouts and their identity to promoters, boxers or spectators is not known until they take their place at the ringside. This is a further check against fraudulent activity. Under the law the commission has authority similar to that of any court to punish the testimony of witnesses on all matters within their jurisdiction.

Women who have been bouts in this city previously only in an unofficial capacity are now equal privileges with male boxers of the sport, and at the first of the bouts under the new law the referee will be a woman. The new law is being enforced throughout the state. Referees have been prohibited and referees ordered to desert from bouts and to support of their opponents.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

All for fun is the extravaganza put on by Farrell Taylor & Co. at the B. F. Keith's theatre this week. True Taylor and Tom Carter give some of the most lucid of blackface comedy, but little Carlena Diamond is a splendid dancer and Edith Swan plays the beautiful comedy girl. There is a ceaseless run of fun and music throughout the piece, which is called "The African Dances." Clara Howard, called the "musical comedy girl," is another excellent entertainer, whose method is somewhat different from that of any of her predecessors. The skating and dancing are mostly of the modern and exceedingly well done, while the comedy "sketches" by Holaday & Whitte, is bright throughout. For instrumental music that appeals to young & wheelers stand out prominently. Other good acts are Bowers, Walters & Crocker, the three rubes, and Tom and Mac Waddell.

OPERA HOUSE

You shouldn't miss the presentation this week by the Lowell Players of the stirring melodrama, "The Spider." The fact that it is drawing capacity audiences at all performances indicates its popularity. The play is a dramatic exposition of life in the mysterious world of the underworld, where gamblers value a dollar more than human life. There are Lyons and Moran in "The Spider" and the play is a dramatic production. Tickets are sold fast for the remaining performances. Next week "Friendly Enemies" will be given.

THE STRAND

"The White Moll," taken from the great novel by the same name, and with Paul White in the stellar role, heads the bill at the Strand. For the dramatic exposition of life in the mysterious world of the underworld, where gamblers value a dollar more than human life. There are Lyons and Moran in "The Spider" and the play is a dramatic production. Tickets are sold fast for the remaining performances. Next week "Friendly Enemies" will be given.

HIALEO THEATRE

"The Green Flame," a baffling detective story with J. Warren Kerrigan taking the role of the evidence man, heads the bill at the Hialeo theatre. The play is a dramatic exposition of life in the mysterious world of the underworld, where gamblers value a dollar more than human life. There are Lyons and Moran in "The Spider" and the play is a dramatic production. Tickets are sold fast for the remaining performances. Next week "Friendly Enemies" will be given.

The entire lot contains 5400 square feet of land, more or less. There is a frontage of about 60 feet on Gorham street and about 90 feet on Auburn street. Nos. 3, 7 and 9 Auburn street will be sold in one lot.

Nos. 3 Auburn street is a 2½-story, slate roofed, brick house of 10 rooms. The first floor is composed of hall, double parlors, living room, kitchen, pantry and bath room, has set tubs, hot and cold water.

The second floor is composed of four cheerful sleeping rooms with large closets in each room. There are also two sleeping rooms on the floor above. Has front and back stairs.

There is a high-posted, well lighted, cemented cellar under the entire building, which is divided into three compartments. The house is lighted by gas. The place is in good repair inside and out, is set back from Gorham street from 15 to 20 feet, and has a lawn all around the house, making it a very desirable residence. It is now occupied by the heirs.

Nos. 7 and 9 Auburn street is a modern built house of three flats. Each tenement has five rooms, pantry and bath, all on one floor; has set tubs, hot and cold water, gas, separate cellars, piazzas, ash chutes, clothes sheds. Everything is entirely separate.

The tenements are so built that they have an unobstructed view of Gorham street, and are bright and airy. They are always rented.

The property is located on one of Lowell's best business streets, just above the Court House, where property is bound to advance in value. Electric cars pass the door. It has been in the Egan family for some time and has always paid a good return on the investment, but to settle the estate must be sold. Can be seen at any time by appointment with the auctioneer.

Terms of sale: $500 in cash must be paid to the auctioneer at time and place of sale. Other terms at sale.

Per order, JOSEPH F. EGAN, Administrator.

CHANGE TRAIN SCHEDULES

New railroad time-tables with schedules which will be effective upon the change of time Sunday, were issued by the Boston and Maine railroad this morning. All railroad clocks and employees' watches have been one hour behind Massachusetts daylight saving time, and no need will be changed at all on Sunday. Time-tables have given train schedules one hour behind time, however, and must be moved up one hour to correspond with the change from daylight saving time.

holding the office of deputy grand master of Masons in this state and upon his appointment to his new office he has received many congratulations from friends and members of the order of which he is an officer.

The office to which he was elected yesterday is the highest in the gift of the templars in this jurisdiction, which includes Massachusetts and Rhode Island with their representation of 25,000 members.

Meetings of the templars of this jurisdiction over which Mr. Pollard will preside are called twice yearly. Mr. Pollard is probably the youngest man ever to hold the office of grand commander of the Knights Templars.

NAVY RECRUITING NEWS

Former naval reserve men whose enlistments have expired and who did not re-enroll within the four months as prescribed by law, can be re-enrolled in a confirmed status, if they have had three months' active service on a combatant ship, according to information given out from the local navy recruiting station in Central street this morning. These men have lost the right to the 25 per cent increase in retainer pay for the break in continuous service, however.

George Dube, 271 High street, city, was accepted at the station this morning as an apprentice seaman. Arthur Nolan, 106 Billerica street, city, was also accepted as fireman, third class for machinist's mate.
